Car Driver Seriously Hurt in Smash

BADLY SMASHED car in which Bernard Green, of 9403-96A street, was seriously injured today after being in collision with truck at corner of 92 street and 90 avenue, tells sad tale. Green was rushed to University Hospital where his condition is reported as being "fair" at press time this afternoon.

Province Will Probe Lower-Cost Housing

Cabinet Planning Early Consideration

Scheme to reduce the cost of housing in Alberta is expected to receive cabinet attention shortly.

Hon. A. J. Hooke, minister of economic affairs, said today the government is anxious to promote measures which would reduce the cost of home ownership.

Yesterday Mr. Hooke conferred with Hon. R. H. Winters, Dominion minister of reconstruction and supply.

Mr. Hooke said the federal minister sought to determine provincial suggestions for meeting Canada's acute housing shortage problem.

OPPOSE BIG MORTGAGES

"Mr. Winters seems to favor plans to reduce the down payment of home purchases, but we are not anxious to assist the people of Alberta in going heavily into debt with big mortgages," Mr. Hooke said.

"We are more inclined to favor plans whereby the actual cost of housing would be reduced, and suggestions to this effect which were discussed with Mr. Winters will be brought before the cabinet very shortly."

City at Limit In Subsidizing Home-Building

Edmonton has gone to the limit in subsidizing home-building.

This was Mayor Harry D. Ainlay's message to Reconstruction Minister Robert H. Winters yesterday.

"I assured Mr. Winters that as a municipality we have gone the limit in subsidization. He agreed with me and said it was apparent by him that we have pretty well drained the barrel of the great proportion of people able to pay large down payments for high priced homes," the mayor said today.

RENTAL PAYMENT PLAN

Mayor Ainlay said he thinks Mr. Winters realizes that, to meet Edmonton's situation, a rental payment plan on small down payment is required.

The city has already laid out more than $2 million to assist various housing projects, mostly those of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Topping the outlay was a direct subsidy of approximately $700 each for utility services, land grants, etc.

On earlier units, only $24 a year tax is collected, while comparable individual homes pay approximately $125 a year. Later units pay $75 a year, which still falls short of meeting city costs. School costs alone are not covered by city revenue from the houses.

Tito Scores Over Soviet In Dispute

Telling Russia To Keep Out Seen As Winning Angle

By EDWARD KORRY

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 24.—(UP) — Marshal Tito scored in his latest propaganda exchange with Moscow by his defiance and his offer to return a potential fifth column of some 12,000 Russians to the Soviet Union, western diplomatic observers said today.

These sources stressed that the important part of the Yugoslav note announced yesterday was the passage telling the Soviet Union to keep its hands out of Yugoslavia's business.

They saw no conciliatory attitude expressed in the note. They pointed out that the Tito government always has offered to discuss its differences with Russia on a basis of equality, which the Soviet Union refuses to do.

ADDRESSED TO ALL

According to veteran diplomats here, the Yugoslav note deftly kept the issue from appearing to be a strictly Soviet-Yugoslav dispute.

The Yugoslav note, in effect, was addressed to all Communist parties of the world, telling them the basis for the quarrel was whether Russia had the right to dictate to any party or any government, they said.

"It was the best, even the Yugoslavs ever sent," one top-ranking western diplomat said. "It made the Russians stand partly by contrast, and its dignified restatement of principle put the whole question before the world rather than just before the Russians."

PEACE OFFER

Diplomats also praised Tito's offer to extradite 21 Soviet citizens under arrest and return all other Russian citizens in Yugoslavia. Some of these could work effectively for the Yugoslav cause in Russia, it was pointed out.

At the same time the offer was considered as cutting the props from under the main Soviet point in its propaganda — the mistreatment of Russian citizens.

Another leading western diplomat said the final paragraph of the Yugoslav note, offering to mediate the dispute, was "so much window dressing."

"It follows through with the restrained and clear language of the rest of the note," he pointed out. "The Yugoslavs have said it every other time, and it makes their moral position before the rest of the world that much stronger. It puts the blame on Moscow for continuing and worsening the dispute."

MAYOR KEEPS OFFICIAL DATE BY HELICOPTER

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Busy Mayor William O'Dwyer kept a date Monday by helicopter.

He finished a ceremony on Staten Island and was due for a Manhattan meeting in 15 minutes.

The Staten Island ferry couldn't get him there in time. So he boarded a police department helicopter at a Staten Island field and was whisked across upper New York bay to the foot of Wall street in 11 minutes. A police car then rushed him to nearby city hall—with two minutes to spare for his date.

Boy Confesses To Assault Of 7-Year-Old

A 15-year-old boy is held by city police today following his confession to indecent assault of a seven-year-old girl yesterday afternoon near South Side park.

The youth denies committing two previous attacks which occurred in the vicinity within the past two weeks. Police, however, are not entirely satisfied with his explanations and are continuing investigations.

SUSPECT "TRUSTY"

The suspect is a "trusty" at the Optimist's South Side Home where he is being indefinitely detained as a ward of the state as a result of previous sex offences.

He admits being out of the home on both afternoons when previous attacks occurred and admits being near the swimming pool, on the afternoon of the second assault.

The confession was obtained by Detective Ken O'Brien, who went immediately to the home to question the youth following the girl's description.

The girl said she had been lured into the bush shortly before 4 p.m. by a young man who asked her to help him "look for a lost wallet."

Atlantic Pact Now in Effect

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The historic Atlantic Treaty went into effect today at a White House ceremony.

From this hour onward the 12 countries will be formally pledged to strike back in case of an attack against any one of them.

Formal notice by the French government that it had ratified the treaty provided the occasion for the White House gathering.

The pact brings to an end a century and a half of American policy of steering clear of any peace-time alliance with European countries.

Officials Busy Planning What Planners To Do

City commissioners were still deciding late this morning just what the city's two town planning consultants will do in their brief stay here.

Interrupting what promised to be an all-day session of civic officials and Professors John Bland and Harold J. Spence-Sales, Mayor Harry D. Ainlay said, "We are clearing our own minds, and want them to clear theirs, with regard to their terms of reference."

The two McGill town planners are here to start a general survey of the city, and are spending today discussing the situation with commissioners and heads of departments, the mayor said.

"It will be a very general survey, with special attention to several specific problems, including a civic centre, traffic difficulties and traffic arteries, and others."

Prof. Spence-Sales said the survey will be a purely technical one, "and we want a minimum of publicity."

The two will leave the city Sept. 10 and plan to make a full report to Mayor Ainlay before then.

"We are meeting a group of utilities officials this afternoon and lining up our avenue of attack," said Prof. Spence-Sales. "We may have something definite to say after we gather the facts and find our feet."

Town Planner Hiring Decision Expected Today

City Commissioners expect to reach a decision late today on the application of Noel Dant for the post of town planner.

Mayor Harry D. Ainlay says Mr. Dant met members of City Council and Town Planning Commission yesterday, and is meeting civic department heads this afternoon.

"Since Mr. Dant is leaving for the east tonight, we must reach a decision this afternoon, because he must know whether he will be coming back early in October."

Clear Evening Forecast Here

Edmonton's weather forecaster isn't sticking his neck out.

Making his daily forecast, he would not say one way or another whether Edmonton would get rain.

"There's been 2.14 inches of rain in Prince Albert and 1.62 inches at Saskatoon."

But as for Edmonton he said, "Well, we might and then again we might not."

He is sure however, clouds will disappear this evening and temperatures will climb to at least 70.

Giant Airliner Flies in Britain

RADLETT, Hertfordshire, England, Aug. 24.—Reuters.—The world's biggest aircrew-turbine airliner, the Hermes V, made it maiden flight yesterday.

It flew for 30 minutes at about 2,000 feet, and the flight was described as "completely successful."

Powered by four engines, the Hermes V is preassurized for substratosphere flying and has a maximum speed of 353 miles an hour. Maximum range is 5,000 miles.

City Man Badly Injured In Truck-Car Collision

A 26-year-old Edmonton man was badly injured this morning when a car and truck collided near the intersection of 92 street and 90 avenue.

Jo University hospital suffering from concussion, a fractured left leg and cuts and bruises is Bernard Green, 26, of 9403-96A street.

TRUCK DRIVER UNHURT

Collision occurred at about 8:20 a.m. Driver of the truck was Edward Wagner of 9003-94 street. He was uninjured.

A Smith's ambulance passing the intersection on its way to pick up a maternity case, saw the collision and picked up Mr. Green.

Force of the collision knocked several hundred pounds of clay from the back of the truck on to the street.

Little damage was done to the truck but the front end of the auto was completely smashed.

THOUGHT ROAD CLEAR

Mr. Wagner said, "I stopped to make a left turn and signalled. The way looked clear so I was just going to make my turn onto 90 avenue. I saw the car coming south down 92 street and slammed on the brakes."

His action was not in time to avoid a collision.

Authorities at University Hospital later today reported Mr. Green's condition as 'good.'

Fires Brought Under Control

By British United Press

A strict watch was kept today on all Quebec and Ontario forests as hundreds of tired, haggard fire-fighters successfully battled a rash of fires throughout both provinces.

Thick smoke still stained the skies over fire-ravaged areas, but everywhere the outbreaks were reported almost or completely under control.

ALL ARE CHECKED

Along the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, where the counties of Lotbinier, Nicolet and Megantic had been enveloped in flames, the fires were being checked.

All of the 151 fires burining in Ontario were reported under control.

A strict ban was placed on travel in the forests. In Quebec a similar ban was enforced in 29 forest districts and vacationers flocking to the province from the United States and other parts of the Dominion were forced to look elsewhere for their hunting and fishing.

WORST SITUATION

The worst situation earlier today was in the south St. Lawrence districts.

Communication lines were cut between many districts, barns, at least 23 homes, crops and schools were reported destroyed.

RCAF Evacuates Dead From Manitoba Crash

By Robert Clarke

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24.—(CP)—The RCAF set about the sad task of claiming the bodies of 21 air crash victims from rugged bush country in northern Manitoba.

The victims—13 whites and eight Eskimos—lost their lives in the flaming smash-up of a twin-engined, amphibious Canso Sunday night on the 600-mile trip from the Hudson Bay port of Churchill to Winnipeg.

The Canso piled into the ground at a spot about 80 miles east of Norway House, Man.

THIRD WORST CRASH

It was the worst crash in Manitoba air history and the loss of life had been exceeded only twice before in Canada. The two more severe crashes both occurred in Quebec province—one in the Gaspe region that took 29 lives in July, 1948, and the other at St. Donat that claimed 24 lives in October, 1945.

Air Force officials said they hoped to fly out the bodies of the 13 whites this afternoon to Winnipeg.

Tonsils Are Polio Defence

There's nothing new about the theory that an operation for the removal of the tonsils increases the risk of a child contracting infantile paralysis.

The question was raised yesterday in London, England, by a coroner who adjourned an inquest into the deaths of two brothers who died of poliomyelitis on the same day, shortly after having their tonsils removed.

"I want to hear more evidence about the operations," the doctor was quoted as saying.

WELL-KNOWN THEORY

Here, in Edmonton, doctors agreed that there was "nothing new" about the theory.

One doctor said "it is fairly well established that it is not advisable to remove a child's tonsils during an epidemic" of polio.

He explained that tonsils "are a body defence" and that their removal might open a field for attack by polio.

During the London inquest, a pathologist testified that the health ministry during the 1947 polio epidemic had advised doctors to postpone tonsillectomies until the outbreak dwindled.

Noted Cleric Dies in U.K.

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(CP)—Very Rev. Dr. J. R. P. Sclater, 73, moderator of the United Church of Canada from 1942 to 1944, died in Edinburgh, Scotland, last night, church officials were advised today.

During his moderatorship and up to his death, Dr. Sclater was a leader of those negotiating for Christian unity, especially between the Church of England in Canada and the United Church.

He left his church, old St. Andrew's church, Toronto, earlier this summer for a visit to the United Kingdom. He had preached in Edinburgh and consulted with leaders working for unity between the Church of England and the Church of Scotland.

BIG WELCOME PLANNED

U.K. Yachtsmen Acclaim Atlantic-Crossing Feat

YARMOUTH, Isle of Wight, England, Aug. 24.—(CP)—For yachtsmen Colin and Stanley Smith, nothing is too good, their old home town decided last night in preparing their official welcome home.

The date of the brothers' visit is still undecided but representatives from every family in this village of 800 persons decided at a public meeting it will be a bang-up affair.

The brothers, who crossed the Atlantic in 43 days from Dartmouth, N.S., in a 20-foot boat, the Nova Esperro (New Hope), will receive a combined clock and barometer set each during the public reception, along with a che...e and illuminated scroll.

When they sail past the Needles, landmark at the western entrance to the Solent, they will be joined by a fleet of yachts from the Royal Solent Yacht Club and service vessels.

Rockets will be discharged to summon the Yarmouth lifeboat coxswained by their father, Stanley Smith. It will follow the Nova Esperro at a discreet distance, to signify the little sloop made the Atlantic crossing without assistance.

The brothers left Dartmouth, N.S. July 6 in the little open-cockpit yacht. They braved the Atlantic without help until they reached Dartmouth, England, Aug. 18.

The home-made boat was towed the last few hundred yards into harbor, the first help they had received on their 2,700-mile voyage.

While in Britain, the adventurers, who emigrated to Canada last February, hope to raise money to found a "model village" on Vancouver Island.

They plan for settlers to speak Esperanto, the international language from which they named their tiny sailing boat.

Boy Admits Assaulting Girl

She had been playing near the park with her six-year-old brother.

BROTHER WITNESS

He saw the youth lead his sister west on Saskatchewan Drive and turn toward the park on a path between 101 and 102 streets.

A short time later he heard her scream:

"Let me go! Let me go!"

The boy ran home to tell his mother who raced to the spot and called the girl.

Hearing her mother call, the youngster tore herself free from the attacker. It is believed he had the child pinned to the ground and that the mother arrived just in time to save her from serious harm.

ASSAILANT FRIGHTENED

The youth is believed to have become frightened at hearing the woman's voice, and fled into the bush.

The small girl was carrying a cheap watch when she ran to her mother. The youth later admitted giving it to her.

It is expected the youth will appear in juvenile court and may possibly be committed to Oliver mental institute for observation.

Previous attacks occurred in the same district August 11 and a week later on August 18. One man is believed responsible for both. They involved one two, and one five-year-old girl.

POLICE HANDICAPPED

Police are handicapped because the five-year-old girl is out of town and the two-year-old is too young to make positive identification. Her five-year-old brother will be asked to identify the alleged attacker.

The youth detained has red hair, which does not check with previous descriptions supplied by other victims who said he was dark.

However, police point out that children's descriptions are often highly inaccurate.

The girl attacked yesterday first described the pervert as about 30, dark, with a dark mustache. It was only later that she was able to give a more accurate description.

Cradle-to-Grave Security to Stay

British Labor Reforms Now Endorsed by Tories

Security is the keynote of Labor policy in Britain. The following article discusses some of the effects.—EDITOR.

By Stuart Underhill

LONDON, Aug. 24—(CP)—A social security program that can sustain every citizen from infancy to death is the proudest monument erected by the Labor administration.

Many hands from other parties mixed the materials during the wartime coalition government, but the final pouring was done by Labor.

Whatever their private views, Conservatives are pledged to accept the result should another election place them in office.

Trade union leaders, remembering grinding poverty during the depression of the 1930's, regard the Labor government as duty bound to maintain the "welfare state." Many of them are hurt by the indifference of working people to the miracle that has been wrought.

"When I was a young man I gave my life to the Labor movement," said a Labor member of parliament for an East London working-class district.

"Those were the days when you saw hungry kiddies in bare feet and rags right around here. You can't find them now.

Social Services Contributory

In a neighborhood public-house, drinking the weakest and most expensive beer Britain has known, and puffing a heavily-taxed cigarette, James Dolphin, 33, who earns £7 10s a week in a carpet factory, gave his viewpoint.

"We won't go back to the old days, never fear," he insisted. "But the way I look at these social services is this — we pay for them, don't we?

"Soon as I work a bit of overtime, old Cripps whacks it off in taxes. I figure we're entitled to everything we get."

Dolphin's benefits are secured by a weekly payment of 4s 11d. His employer another 4s 2d.

In return he is assured of an allowance if he loses his job, a pension when he grows old, and a grant when he dies to help with his burial. His wife gets a special grant if she has a baby, and an allowance of 5s a week for every child after the first.

Medical care, financed principally from general taxation, is free to everyone. Subsidies keep down the price of basic foodstuffs. His children get free milk at school and hot lunches for a few pence.

Attorney-general Sir Hartley Shawcross estimated recently that food subsidies and the National Health Service were worth £1 a week to every householder in the country. If education, national insurance and pensions were taken into account the benefit would be the equivalent of £2 13s for an average family of five.

Another member of the government, Fuel Minister Hugh Gaitskell, sounded this warning note:

"We have got to recognize that we cannot get any further social services without additional taxation."

His Taxes Mostly Indirect

At present Dolphin, married with two children, pays less than £5 a year in income tax. Another man with the same size family, earning £600 a year, pays £46 10s in tax. If he earned £1,000 it would be £256. Dolphin's chief contribution to the state is through indirect taxation.

Small wonder that professional men complain that they are bearing the financial burden of social reform.

With an eye on this dissatisfaction, the Conservative party promises that "in our review of income tax (if elected), reliefs for parents will have a large part to play."

But it forthrightly endorses the social services as a whole, describing them as "a co-operative system of mutual and self-help provided by the whole nation and designed to give to all the basic minimum of security, of housing, of opportunity, of employment and of living standards below which our duty to one another forbids us to permit anyone to fall."

FREE ARTHRITIS CLINIC PLANNED IN CALGARY

CALGARY, Aug. 24—(CP)—Dr. W. W. Cross, Alberta minister of health and welfare, announced today that a free rheumatoid arthritis clinic for persons under 21 years of age may be opened shortly at the Belcher hospital in Calgary.

The clinic would come under the program adopted by the legislature this spring. One is already operating in Edmonton.

Under Alberta regulations, any person under 21 who has resided in the province for not less than 12 of the previous 24 months, may be referred to the clinics by a personal physician.

A diagnosis will be given, and if rheumatoid arthritis is found, the patient may receive free treatment at a clinic or hospital.

The treatment cannot exceed 90 days, unless further recommended by the director.

Standard ward accommodation, routine laboratory services, drugs, and dressings, such as X-ray examinations, special laboratory examinations, and special drugs are included in the free hospitalization.

afflictions, will be taken to Norway House for burial.

SHUTTLE SYSTEM

Officials said it would be necessary to employ a shuttle system to retrieve the bodies from the Canso. Another Canso will be flown to a lake a few miles away from the crash scene while a lighter Norseman aircraft will put down on a smaller lake close to the smashed plane. The Norseman will be used to carry the remains on the short hop to the waiting Canso.

In addition to the eight Eskimos, who had been taken aboard the plane at the North-West Territories outpost of Chesterfield Inlet, the doomed Canso carried seven air force crew members, four weather observers from the Department of Transport, a Canadian Press reporter and a young woman physiotherapist.

CAUSE UNCERTAIN

Little is known yet of how the plane came to crash on the final leg of a sweep that had taken it inside the Arctic Circle to Clyde River, on Baffin Island, as well as to several other spots in the north. However, air force officials said it had struck a rise in the ground.

Disaster apparently engulfed the plane as it skimmed close to the ground in an effort to pick out a suitable spot for a water landing while waiting for storm conditions to pass.

Hundred-foot humps—such as one the Canso struck—are a rarity in table-flat Manitoba and it is possible the hill was shrouded in fog.

SWATH IN BUSH

The plane cut a swath more than 40 feet wide and 500 feet long through the brush and pine trees.

Personal belongings were strewn all over the wreck area. Snapshots, an aerial camera, a broken folding camera, an exposed roll of film, a pair of women's brown shoes, a fishing rod and a 10 of diamonds playing card, face up, were found.

Among passengers were 31-year-old Jack Aveson of the Canadian Press' Winnipeg bureau, a specialist in articles on the north country, and Constance Beattie, 24-year-old physiotherapist from Brockville, Ont., and Toronto.

ACCOMPANIED ESKIMOS

Miss Beattie boarded the plane at Chesterfield Inlet, 400 miles north of Churchill, to accompany the stricken Eskimos to hospital here.

Aveson had been a passenger from the time the Canso took off August 15 from Winnipeg. So keen was his interest in writing stories about the north that he had arranged to make the trip during part of his vacation period.

Two Navy Fliers Die In Formation Tangle

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(CP)—Two Royal Canadian Navy fighter planes collided today while practising formation flying 1,200 feet above suburban Malton airport and both pilots died in the wreckage.

The single-engine Seafires were part of a formation of eight from the naval air base at Dartmouth, N.S. They were practising the formation flying intended to thrill crowds at the Canadian National Exhibition, opening here Friday.

DEAD IDENTIFIED

The navy at Ottawa released the names of the dead:

Acting Lt.-Cmdr. C. G. (Clunk) Watson, and Lieut. Charles Elton, both of Toronto.

Lt.-Cmdr. Watson, one of the leading pilots in the Royal Canadian Navy, is survived by his widow in Halifax. Lieut. Elton was not married.

Eyewitnesses at the busy airport said three planes swept the field in close formation and were going into a roll. One appeared to stall momentarily and fell out of formation.

TAIL CUT OFF

When it attempted to regain its position, the propeller bit into the fuselage of the lead plane, severing its tail section.

The planes crashed 150 feet apart. One hit the ground a few feet away from a busy highway to Toronto. The other, trailing smoke, narrowly missed the roof of a hospital and exploded in a nearby field.

Ainlay Charges Gov't 'Pass Buck'

Highway Problem is Target For Criticism from Ainlay

The federal government is passing the buck on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Mayor Harry D. Ainlay said today this is his impression, after "being able to keep Reconstruction Minister R. H. Winters a few minutes yesterday to discuss the highway."

The mayor said he didn't get very far trying to convince the minister that the federal government should assume a far greater proportion of its cost.

"I told him that putting such a heavy financial load on the provinces is not the best thing for the country, but he seemed to think the provinces should have the say-so in route and therefore bear half the cost."

"It seems ridiculous to me that we should plan a national highway and then let the provinces plan the route. We certainly would never do that with a railroad," said Mayor Ainlay.

"It looks to me as though federal authorities are passing the buck, and that full responsibility for the route will be a provincial one."

He said it would be fantastic if British Columbia and Saskatchewan each decided on a southern route, and Alberta were to hold up the whole proposition because it felt the province would best be served by a northern route. "It's a bad idea—the whole thing."

"I'm heartily sick of hearing cabinet ministers talk about provincial responsibility when it does the country so much harm."

TO CONFERENCE

Coal mining industry heads and members of the provincial department of mines and minerals will attend the mines' ministers conference at Fredericton, N.B., early in September.

Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, I. N. McKinnon, chairman of the petroleum and natural gas conservation board, John Harvie, deputy minister of lands and forests, John Crawford, director of the coal mines branch, and W. J. Dick, Edmonton mining authority, will be among the representatives. The conference opens Sept. 8.

BACK IN CITY

CPA's development director W. R. "Wop" May returned to Edmonton yesterday after a successful aerial tour of Canada's great northland in company with Hon. Colin E. Gibson, federal minister of mines and resources.

NEW POSITION

Long recognized as an expert in colonization and settlement in the west, John Patrick Martin has been appointed superintendent of colonization and agriculture for the CNR at Prince George. He succeeds Harvey Bowman.

Martin started with the Soldiers' Settlement board following return from overseas in the First World War. He joined CNR land settlement department in 1927 as district superintendent at Prince Albert. He later served in similar capacity at Grande Prairie. He has been making farm appraisals and doing settlement work for British immigrants since 1933 with headquarters in Edmonton.

CANADIAN HERO

Gilbert LaBine discovered the atomic age for North America. That's what Reader's Digest states in a September feature article by Francis and Katherine Drake. Story tells of LaBine's lonely northern forays from Edmonton culminating in the Great Bear Lake pitchblende discovery in May of 1930. LaBine never realized his rich discovery would usher in an age both terrible and wonderful, states the article.

Had it not been for LaBine, surrender of the Japanese would likely have been long delayed.

BACK FROM NORTH

Three-day routine inspection trip of the north ended here this morning with return of department of transport officials from Yellowknife. The party was composed of A. J. Moore, inspector of air regulations, K. F. Saunders, district inspector of air regulations, Harold Davenport, aircraft engineer and Don Gallagher, aircraft mechanic. Points visited were McMurray, Fort Smith, Hay River and Yellowknife.

School Board Lets Contract

Contract for substantial alterations to the heating plant at the Alex. Taylor School was awarded to the H. Kelly Co. Ltd. at a meeting of the Edmonton Public School Board last night.

Bid of the successful tenderer was for $13,870 and was the lowest of six submitted.

Other companies tendering were Carse Anderson Co., Jamieson and Lofts Co., Haddow and Maughan, Dean Plumbing, and J. W. Mould and Son.

The Board also accepted the tender of Marshall Wells Co. for the supply and erection of a chain link fence on a portion of the Strathcona and Glenora school grounds. Contract for the Strathcona School was for $607.66 and both terrible and wonderful, states for the Glenora School $785.22.

School Board Takes Loss

Financially, holding real estate can sometimes prove embarrassing.

Back in the boom days of 1913 the Edmonton Public School Board paid $7,502 for the Windsor Terrace property legally described as lots six to 25, Block 35.

Meeting of the Board last night, 36 years later concurred in the sale of the property for $7,002 less.

The property was acquired by the city for its new gravel pit at a cost of $500.

North Indian Faces Trial for Murder

PEACE RIVER, Aug. 24.—After a preliminary hearing Louis Napio, 27-year-old Kathleen district treaty Indian, was yesterday committed for trial on charge of murdering 50-year-old George Ward.

Presiding at the hearing which was held in McLennan was Magistrate J. W. Bissel.

Ward died of gunshot wounds August 7 in the Kathleen district between McLennan and High Prairie.

The trial is expected to take place in the fall assizes of the supreme court.

Testimony submitted at the preliminary hearing indicated several persons were at the home of R. Ghostkeeper on Aug. 6.

About 2 a.m. Aug. 7, evidence stated, Napio left the house and was seen by two boys.

Napio is alleged to have fired shots at the boys.

Hearing shots Mr. Ghostkeeper, Ward and Dan Ghostkeeper left the house and Napio is alleged to have shot Ward.

Coroner Dr. H. W. Fish and Dr. A. Piche, both of McLennan, said Ward died of hemorrhage caused by a gunshot wound in the chest.

TRIBUTE was paid last evening when Edmonton furniture dealers gathered at Macdonald hotel for reception in honor of J. H. Julien who retired as Alberta representative of Parkhill Bedding Co., after 24 years service. Mr. Julien will be succeeded by A. T. Law, DSO, who commanded Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders. R. H. Parkhill, president of company, congratulates Mr. Julien as W. T. Henry and John Easton look on.

IRATE TRUCKER from Mercoal had nasty words to say about city of Edmonton yesterday. Seems Paul Zaverucka got stuck in mudhole on 108A avenue between 101 and 99 streets at 9 a.m. yesterday. By late afternoon, after at least three phone calls to city departments, he was still stuck "even though city promised to pull me out right away." He values his trucking time at $10 an hour and was quite unhappy about service.

City Entry in Air Show Creates Much Enthusiasm

(See other story on page 9.)

With Edmonton the first city in the British Commonwealth of Nations to enter a competitor in the international air speed championships general interest here is literally looking up.

Fortieth annual speed contests will be run off Sept. 3 to 5, at Cleveland, Ohio.

Among Edmontonians planning to attend the air speed show is Air Vice-Marshal K. M. Guthrie, CB, CBE, former air officer commanding North-West Air Command.

Another prominent airman likely to attend is Dennis Yorath, Edmonton, national president of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association.

Chamber of Commerce committee also may send representatives.

The Chamber delegates would be going as observers with a view to incorporating all interesting air show program highlights into their plans for a giant air show here next July 6-7-8.

NEEDS OKAY

The Chamber's plan is dependent on approval by the department of defence for use of the Namao airport for those dates.

Don McKay, Chamber executive secretary, and D. R. Jacox, aviation committee member, were delegates selected to make the trip to Cleveland.

Whether they attend the Cleveland show will depend on an early reply to the Chamber's application for use of the military airfield, Mr. McKay said today.

Reservations for the four are being held by Trans-Canada Airlines.

Other reservations are expected to be confirmed shortly, TCA officials said, adding that great interest is being shown this season.

Last year there was only one passenger from the city who flew TCA specifically to see the air-speed races at Cleveland, the officials said.

14 FLIGHTS

Fourteen special flights from Toronto already are booked by TCA to take passengers from various centres to this year's speed exhibition.

Entry from Edmonton of Spitfire war ace J. H. G. McArthur is credited with stirring a new western Canadian interest in the international air speed meet.

McArthur will compete Sept. 5 for the meet's top prize of $16,000 and the Thompson world championship trophy.

Worker Injured

Chris Christenson, of Calder, laborer at Muttart Lumber Company, 84 street and Jasper avenue, was taken to hospital yesterday suffering a possible fractured leg.

He was injured when a pile of cement sacks rolled over on top of him.

MUSIC TEACHER George Lake, of 10044-90 avenue, right, wanted a double-necked electric guitar, so he designed one. Guitar, only one of its kind in this part of Canada, was built by his pal, Len Meudy, an auto body worker. Lake's guitar forms sweet background for young group of Edmonton musicians.

Police Chief Warns In Wake of Thefts

A warning came from Chief Constable Reg Jennings today as police investigated a series of 'window' robberies.

"Many people seem to think their premises are secure as long as the doors are locked," said the Chief. "They often fail to realize that windows are extremely vulnerable. It is a simple matter to remove a pane of glass and release the lock on the window."

During the past two nights 'window' thieves have broken into six city business places. In five cases they removed a pane of glass. In one instance a show window was smashed.

Most serious was the break-in last night at Passmore Garage, 9907-103 street in which a car was stolen. The vehicle was later reported used by the criminals at a smash-and-grab burglary of jewelry store.

The car, owned by Mrs. F. T. Allen, 10726-110 street, was stolen about 1 a.m.

The smash-and-grab theft occurred later at Arts Jewelry, 10049-97 street. Loss was minor, consisting of rings and miscellaneous jewelry valued at less than $5.

Two other 'window' break-ins were reported to police yesterday. In both cases windows were barred or boarded for extra protection.

Derrybard Coffee Shop, 12202 Fort Road was victimized when a thief entered the shop for the second time within recent months. In the previous case, entry was gained in the same manner through the same window.

Boards have since been nailed across the inside of the window but the burglar was able to remove one of these to gain entry.

Stolen was $10 in cash and $10 worth of cigarettes.

Freight Rate Brief Ready

Alberta's formal protests against the present freight rates structure in Canada will be in the hands of the Board of Transport Commissioners by early September.

J. J. Frawley, KC, special counsel on freight rates for the Alberta government, said today briefs will be expressed to Ottawa Sept. 9.

Largest of the briefs is a 160-page volume, and represents the work of several experts attached to Mr. Frawley's department.

Briefs deal with equalization of freight rate levels, long and short haul violations and the effect of freight rates upon industrial locations in Alberta.

Hearings, at which Mr. Frawley will be present to express Alberta views, will open in Ottawa in November.

It is expected that if legislative measures dealing with the freight rate structure are recommended following the hearings, such legislation would be brought before the federal parliamentary session during the fall of 1950.

ON HOLIDAY

J. S. Graham, district traffic and sals manager for Trans-Canada Airlines, with his wife and family left recently for their annual vacation. They have gone to Sebu Beach and will be away about two weeks. Stan Mooney, TCA traffic representative, is in charge durting Mr. Graham's a t nce.

PARTY ENDS ON ROUGH NOTE FOR GIRL

There's a young swain from Winterburn who believes in treating 'em rough.

Police last night investigated a report that a girl was seen to be hurled out of a car into a ditch near the corner of 105 street and 114 avenue.

Investigation revealed the girl had entered a car with two men and another girl and accompanied them on a party. She did not know any of their names, only that they came from Winterburn.

Later she had a disagreement with her new found friend.

Being a man of few words, he promptly dunked her in the ditch.

F. Swann Gets Gov't Position

Frank Swann, senior field man for local improvement districts at Calgary, is new supervisor of administration of the rural districts.

Appointment of Mr. Swann was announced today by Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs.

Mr. Swann succeeds William Hewlett, civil service member for 30 years, who retired recently on pension.

Mr. Hewlett, a veteran of the First World War, joined the Alberta government staff in 1919 as a member of the Alberta Government Telephones branch and later was transferred to the department of agriculture. In 1928 he was appointed administrator of the Tilley East and Berry Creek drought areas.

He was appointed chief collector for the department of municipal affairs in 1934.

Hotel Lack Serious

More than 10,000 projected business visits to Edmonton are cancelled every month because of lack of hotel space here.

This is an estimate based on a careful compilation of known cases.

In the light of this apparent fact, Mayor Harry D. Ainlay's smug satisfaction in announcing the erection of two new hotels, one of 50 rooms and the other of 120 rooms, is hard to understand.

These new hotels are more than welcome. Every little bit helps. And business men who are forced to cancel trips to Edmonton under present circumstances will probably be glad of these 170 new rooms.

But so far as solving the hotel situation goes, these enterprises are only peanuts.

As a matter of fact, Edmonton's hotel room shortage is so acute as to constitute a civic catastrophe.

And instead of playing around with small projects, useful as they may be, the civic administration should be going out in a big way to attract substantial hotel capital here.

There are scores of large hotel corporations in the East and in the United States that surely would be interested in establishing in a city where 10,000 business visitors are turned away every month and where an inestimable number of tourists are diverted from the city because no rooms are available.

But this capital cannot be attracted unless somebody goes out in a determined campaign to get it.

It is up to the city and up to the Chamber of Commerce to do that job.

Edmontonians travelling in the East and even visiting Calgary hear of cases every day where conventions are diverted from this city because of the lack of hotel accommodations, where business men interested in establishing western branches give Edmonton the go-by because they cannot even get a room to look the situation over.

Such a condition is intolerable.

It is doing Edmonton incalculable harm.

And such a drawback to the city's growth and progress should be the immediate concern of those bodies established to deal with such problems.

Umitigated Gall of CBC

The request of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for an increase in the radio license fee from $2.50 to $5.00 is pure unmitigated gall and the people of Canada will find such an absurd suggestion intolerable.

Why should Canadians dig down in their pockets for a doubled fee for owning receiving sets when the purpose of such a fee is to enable a government-owned system to compete with private enterprise?

The system under which radio operates in Canada is all wrong because the CBC not only controls all radio broadcasting in the country but competes with the private stations it controls.

The principle of the thing is inherently iniquitous because it puts the CBC in the position of a party to a legal action who is also the judge sitting on it.

But even this system was not completely disastrous so long as the CBC kept out of commercial broadcasting.

When Canadians were getting commercial-free programs over the CBC, they felt they might be getting part of their money's worth.

But today the CBC is frankly and openly commercial.

It sells its time to advertisers and still expects the Canadian public to foot the bill.

And now it comes along with the nervy proposition that the Canadian public should pay just twice as much.

It should be remembered that this proposal for a doubled fee does not include experimentation in new fields such as television.

Not at all. We are told that when television comes to Canada, at the CBC's pleasure, a further tax of $10 a year will be levied on television sets.

The whole business has got entirely out of hand.

We are paying through the nose for a government monopoly that is restricting instead of encouraging radio development in Canada.

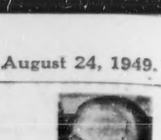

Instead of giving the CBC just twice as much public money to play with, the government should restrict the CBC to a purely controlling body and throw the entire business of broadcasting into the hands of competitive private enterprise.

Reading Contracts Beforehand Advised

A recent news report suggests that special instruction is to be given insallment buyers in order to enable them to preserve their credit.

It might be a good idea to give them a short course in reading at the same time in order to avoid a few headaches.

So far as that goes, a short course in reading documents of all kinds would be very useful to most citizens because no matter how careful a person may be in most things, the average citizen will sign his name to almost anything without finding out what is involved.

There have been many tests in which people have signed foolish petitions without knowing what they were signing.

But all you need do is call on any lawyer and he can list hundreds of cases of people signing documents obligating themselves to all kinds of liabilities without any idea of what they were signing.

The time to worry about payments is before you sign an agreement to pay them, not afterwards.

Deception Not Intended

Installment purchases are only one example. With installment purchases you sign an agreement. It provides for payments, interest, penalty charges, finance charges and a variety of other obligations.

It is true that the fine print is not always easy to read. Yet there comes a day when you discover that because of something you did not think mattered, you have become liable to pay an extra amount.

In some cases you pay extra if you want to pay off the balance early. In some cases overdue payments carry extra charges. In some cases the goods can be seized if they are moved without permission.

Most of these contracts are drawn up to cover the requirements of the lending company.

They are not trying to deceive anyone. In fact there is a sound reason for each of these clauses.

But the ultimate result is that the purchaser simply takes the sheet, scribbles his name, and then later wakens with a jolt to find that he has agreed to pay a number of extra things he had not thought about.

The same applies to insurance.

People buy insurance policies and pay the premiums.

Then comes a flood, a rain storm or something a bit unusual and they discover that they are not covered.

In fact, most people do not know what they are covered for in most of their household policies.

Yet it is easy enough to read even if you ask the agent, he will usually give you a fairly clear explanation of what you are getting and he will tell you how to get whatever other protection you need.

Exciting But It's Costly

But that is too simple. Most people prefer the excitement of waiting until they suffer a loss and then finding out if their policy covers it. It may be exciting, but it can also be costly.

Others sign other sorts of agreements with the same abandon.

Worst feature of this whole business is that if the time were taken to find out what is provided before signing, it is usually possible to secure the provisions wanted so that there will be no difficulty.

But after a contract is signed it is usually too late to do much about it.

There is no point in complaining that you did not understand. After all, most people are supposed to be able to read and if they chose not to bother, they take the consequences.

It is not much of an exaggeration to say that about three-quarters of the serious difficulties that arise in these matters are the sole result of not bothering to find out ahead of time what you are agreeing to and then considering whether you can possibly carry out such an agreement.

A course in reading would be very useful.

Need Sex Education

Editor, Bulletin.—I agree most heartily that immorality exists only in the mind.

Why don't we have proper sex education in our schools? Why is it we are always behind the American schools? Our school board is made up of sensible men.

It is inexcusable.

Return to Old Hymns

Editor, Bulletin—The world is certainly changing in more ways than one.

Take our musicians for instance. All our lovely old hymns, and songs sung down through the ages, which we love, and cherish, are being hashed to pieces by variations, to the extent that we hardly know them until the first verse is sung. Now that should not be done. The sooner our artists get back to the old tunes the better. In my estimation the old hymns cannot be improved on, and many of our singers are spoiling their careers by trying to do so. You may introduce new songs, and new hymns and give them any tune you like, but please do not alter all our lovely old music as we have heard it in days gone by. It could be the making of a lot of our daily programmes, are just spoiled in my opinion by so doing.

Our church choirs are the worst offenders, when broadcasting over the air. Our church services given for sick people, and shut-ins are not interested in classical music, but our Moody hymns, sung well, touch the hearts of the people more than tongue can tell. The services over the air, are put on for sick people. Why not make the service simple, and interesting, instead of a conglomeration of voices, and not one word understood? I am sure our ministers would be more than pleased to have this subject settled once and for all. We hardly ever have a nice solo sung, but the most difficult anthems are chosen which the average voice cannot take. The people want plain gospel hymns.

Prices Of Eggs

Editor, Bulletin—Your reporter who wrote the alarming news story titled, "Eggs Drop Boon To Housewives," evidently knows nothing about the food value of eggs, otherwise his article would have been called, "Co-operatives and Packers Flog Prices to Egg Producers." Even at 72 cents per dozen the housewife can supply a meal to a grown-up for which the main ingredient would be two eggs—value 12 cents, whereas to provide the same amount of nourishment with meat would cost possibly four times twelve cents.

Lately the Dominion senior inspector of poultry products stationed in Edmonton has had far too much to say. His recent remarks in the press indicate clearly that he is speaking out of turn and I quote: "It is unthinkable that eggs should go up that high." It would be more in keeping with the official work if he would confine himself to carrying out more efficiently the inspection of poultry produce and leave the question of prices and value to those who know.

The misconception is caused by the Edmonton housewife when the terms of alleged quality are used to indicate something that is not. Very few eggs reaching the Edmonton consumers are grade A large or medium. Reporter note: There is no such thing as a Low Grade A. Possibly what the consumers have been buying during the high price period are B's and C's and with virtually no store inspection the public can be easily misled.

Most of the quality eggs are sold direct to consumers. They pay a little more, but they know that they get an obtain quality and freshness. The bulk of the shipments going to co-op's and packers are from the small flocks, eggs that are produced under anything but ideal conditions and sometimes weeks old before they are shipped.

We hear a lot about the grading of farm produce; unfortunately it has become a racket behind which the trade hides to first soak the producer and secondly fool the consumer.

Women Police

Editor, Bulletin — Since the Children Allowance cheques were issued in this city what has happened?

1. Increase of marriages.
2. Increase of births.
3. Increase of children allowance.
4. Increase of women's beer parlors.
5. Increase of movie pictures.
6. Increase of dance halls.

Parents spend it on luscious living while children are running wild on the streets, and making all kinds of trouble.

What is needed to remedy this is start the curfew at 10 o'clock and investigators to keep an eye on these People with help of women police.

What is badly needed in Alberta is a society for prevention of cruelty to children. We have one for animals, why not for children?

Then, sir, for the youth who are sent to prison for crime there should be in Canada training ships, one on the east coast and one on the west coast. It's no good putting young people in prison.

Vote For Nothing

Editor, Bulletin:—"The grossly unfair and unjust electoral system . . . which sends an MP to the House of Commons as representative of a riding which voted more votes against him than for him" as pointed out by "W.C., Edmonton," in Friday's Bulletin, is an excellent example of how easily people are deceived.

Actually, the people voted for nothing, although they thought each voter was asked what he or she voted for, no matter what the answer given (if any) when analyzed it would be "I voted for nothing."

Let us hear your answer to the question: "What did you vote for in the last election?"

Bright Invention Is Boon to Radio

(Pierre Berton, article editor of Maclean's Magazine, to Jack Scott's guest columnist today.)

The greatest scientific discovery since Solium in the history of radio broadcasting undoubtedly could be "EEVES-DROP," the tiny little mechanism which, attached to every telephone, could record for the benefit of the radio pollsters every scrap of household conversation.

The potentialities of EEVES-DROP are enormous. Not only can it tabulate the comments of listeners regarding individual programs, but it can also chart their loves, fears, hates and etc. Thus providing unlimited fodder for daytime serials as well as their everyday remarks concerning nationally advertised products.

Preliminary tests were carried out on EEVES-DROP last week at the home of Dorwin Woodpecker, well-known local radio announcer. Curious to see how wonder whether radio announcers really do talk that way, the following dialogue between Woodpecker and his wife is recorded verbatim.

In the Mood

SHE: Why! was the news at the office today, dear?

HE: One amoment aplease. Now, here is the news! Vancouver—Ricardo Pertiner, star of radio playlet entitled "Love's popular You Too Can Be a Mexican" show, today made another pass at his secretary, lovely Lorelei Reynolds. Skeptical authorities describe Pertiner condition as "just fair" . . . Granville Street—Station manager Joe Larceny today suffered severe shock as Jockey Rose Platterby rose to repeal his alleged "unwarranted" playing of the Bach Passionale during Saturday's "Thrive With Jive" program. Larceny claims that Platterby is showing signs of what he termed "breaking-up."

SHE: Oh, dear! How are Ross's T.T.'s? Has he really got—?

HE: You mean . . .?

SHE: Yes, I mean . . .

HE: Yes. Ross Platterby has got Turntable Tummy. Recent impartial tests — vouched for by the authorities at Imperial Toys Organization — now shows that four out of five disc jockeys, who fail to take precautions, suffer from T.T. Don't delay. Don't court T.T. Order a bottle of Precautions, that's spelled: P-R-E-E-K-O-O-S-H-U-N-S—from your nearest food, drug, grocery, department or confectionery store today.

She: Have a muffin, dear. That's spelled M-U-F-F-I-N.

He: Now angel, you know how I dislike muffins. You know I hey! Mmmmmm — Mmmmmm! Say, these muffins are really good! Why they're so light, so delicate, so super-fluffy. Try one and you'll shout: "They're scrummy!"

She: Trying one and shouting "They're scrummy!" That's because they're baked the new Tested Triple Rising Powder Way, dear. Tragic's new scientifically backed three-way plan —thanks to built-in, super-dehydrated shortening, amazing new Tragic discovery made from precchopped kelp — now insures perfect baking pleasure, now makes bake a day your "lucky break" day. Try the simple test: place a stack of ordinary muffins next to a stack of Tragic-baked muffins. In recent impartial tests, four out of five Hollywood husbands chose Tragimuffins as the more delectable, most tasteworthy muffins they'd ever eaten! Not one out of five, but four—yes four out of five made this new startling discovery. So eat the muffins doctors eat. Eat Tragic.

He: (Doggedly, his mouth full of muffin.) They're not that golden brown, chock-full-of-bull'seye yummy-goodness taste!

Tragic Preview

She: What's cooking at the station tomorrow, kid?

HE: Well, that's the question everybody's jips. What will happen tomorrow? Will Reginald de Carswell, girl announcer respond to the furtive, unspoken question in the eyes of handsome, young Ray Mond, the Diamond organist? What was the sudden errand which sent brash, young Bart Kane—whose friendship with the mysterious widow Martin has sent gossips' tongues a-wagging—down the hall to the men's washroom? And then what about the sinister stranger who entered single file late this afternoon with a black tool kit under his arm. Was he really just going to fix the microphone, as he said—or will be some deeper, hidden purpose?

SHE: We'll find out tomorrow. But meanwhile—what's that mysterious sinister buzzing in the telephone?

HE: It's the new scientifically-proven GLORAT, the amazing new girl-friendlier dispenser that automatically cleans and polishes! Genial, kindly Mr. Joe Larceny, station manager, gave me one absolutely free with no strings attached, today. They're indispensable in every household, he said.

SHE: Oh, I'm so relieved—for a moment I had a feeling the thing was taking down everything we said.

From Today's News

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

In Strasbourg, France, seat of the new council of Europe idealists continue to urge that the 12 constituent countries join in forming a United States in which the members would sacrifice much of their sovereignty to the general welfare.

At long last this Utopian idea of the last century shows signs of life. The French premier, like many other great developments, the current activity has its genesis in dangers—economic, political and military—which can only be met by concerted action.

The latest exponent of this extreme proposal, Paul Reynaud, former French premier, ranks internationally as a major prophet. More often than most during the Hitlerian menace, he foresaw the danger. Now he calls for western unity to meet impending crises.

Speaking yesterday on the grave European situation before the consultative assembly of the council, Reynaud advocated a real European legislature, directly elected by the peoples of the member countries.

He said that only in this way could the assembly acquire authority to merge European economies into the single continental market, with one currency, which he contends is demanding if Europe is to survive between the United States and Russia.

He said, of course, speaking as a financial expert, who among other things served as French finance minister during the critical days of 1938-39. He put the proposition bluntly, saying that such a step would eventually mean a sacrifice of national sovereignty, but nevertheless must be taken.

Upon this question of sovereignty very largely turns the whole problem. No country wants to surrender bluntly, saying that.

A wealth of experience lay behind the 70-year-old Reynaud's warning and plea for collective security.

He became premier of France in March, 1940, and in the following black period had to announce to his people some of the greatest reverses in their history. He resigned June 16, 1940, after refusing to surrender to Germany.

The French Vichy government imprisoned Reynaud. On the eve of his arrest he wrote Marshal Petain (now serving a life sentence for treason) saying resistance was the honorable course for France. He was taken to Germany in '43 and returned to France in '45.

Reynaud foresaw the Nazi aggression and urged preparedness, but his was a voice crying in the wilderness.

Trivia

Tennis styles which are going to be worn all over the world have been introduced by two of London's leading designers, Teddy Tinling, who has helped to organize many of the Wimbledon tournaments, and Worsnop, for many of the glamour clothes worn by Miss Augusta Moran, "Georgeous Gussie," as she was generally known.)

A. J. Inod's show-room in Hanover Square was thronged with American players while they were in Britain and he is now sending overseas many of the styles which they chose. The famous light-weight wool "Dorothy" shirt, ultra-long so that it stays in position during like most active game, is one of them. Honors are even between shorts and brief skirts. Both styles are made in light-weight wool with faint herring-bone design in the weave. A typical pair of shorts shows fairly wide box pleats, and there are slots at the waistband through which a colored sash can be threaded.

Smiles

To her unexpected callers the suburban hostess said: "I must apologize for our cluttered-up lawn. Fred was going to rake it yesterday afternoon, but, instead, he went over to the neighbors and drank beer."

"That's right," her husband admitted uncomfortably. "But if you'll stop raking up the past, my dear, I'll promise to stop passing up the rake."

Discusses Politicians' Brains

"Well," said The Sweep, "I suppose you'll be takin' your holidays soon?"

"Quite likely," I said.

"And very nice too."

"Very nice."

"I suppose you'll be going abroad like the rest of the eads?"

"No," I said.

"Well, I am surprised," said The Sweep. "I thought you'd be orf to France to give your old stomach a treat. That's what all of them there brain workers are adoing of."

"Too true they are."

"That is if you call politicians brain workers."

"Why not?"

★ ★ ★

"Personally meself," said The Sweep, "I never thought politicians had any brains."

"Go on," I said.

"Cor strike a light," said The Sweep. "What's the sense in being a politician?"

"Search me," I said.

"It don't matter what they do they're always wrong."

"They certainly are."

"In foreign parts they git their selves strung up or shot up."

"That's right."

"And as for chewing the fat all night when sensible people are asleep in their beds, that ain't my idea of a lark."

"Nor mine."

★ ★ ★

"So I don't see where the brains come in."

"Nor me."

"All the same," said The Sweep, "I suppose you've got to 'ave somebody in Parliament."

"I suppose you have."

"Otherwise there wouldn't be nobody to tell you what to do and what forms to fill up."

"That's right."

"And nobody to tell you to work harder and spend less."

"No."

"To say nothink of 'avin' nobody to tell you to save the money you don't got."

"That's right."

★ ★ ★

"So don't you start grudgin' them a oliday abroad on a full belly."

"I aint grudging them."

"You can't make speeches on an empty stomach. When you've worked as hard as I 'ave, a sailor cat, especially navy types."

"You certainly do."

"And as you and me could ardly be called brain workers I suppose we shall ave to rub along as we are."

"I suppose so."

"You can always ave a nice kipper for your tea and a pint in the evenin."

"You can at all."

"Or a day trip to Margit with whelks on the pier."

"Too true."

"So what are you a-grumbling at?"

"I ain't a-grumbling."

"The skin orf your nose," said The Sweep.

"The skin orf yours."

Letter To a Hero

Following is a letter from Lottie the cat to Simon, hero cat of H.M.S. Amethyst, wounded by shell splinters and awarded the Dickin Medal for catching rats under fire:

Dear Simon,

I hope you won't think I too terrible of me to write to a perfect stranger, but I was so thrilled by your exploit that I felt I must.

Of course, we don't have rats in our house, so I have never seen one and feel sure I would be terrified if I did.

The cats I know often boast about the rats they have caught. Some of the older ones talk of practically nothing else, but rats getting bigger every time they tell the story.

★ ★ ★

But although we live by the sea I don't know one who has ever been inside a boat, so you can imagine I was pop-eyed when I heard about you in that warship, wounded and carrying on as if nothing had happened.

Are you wearing a bandage round your head? I would like to think of you wearing a bandage. I think they're so becoming.

Before going any further perhaps I ought to tell you something about myself.

★ ★

I am a tabby 2½ years old, with white chest and pawf, large eyes, and have heard myself described by passing cats as a smasher.

My American boy friend, Manhattan Mouser, has described my figure as a "swell chassis," and calls me his "Sugar Puss."

He says I am the only she-cat he knows who can wear jeans when she walks, and that I could knock all the cats on Broadway for a row of sardine cans.

Although we are friends, he is not my type, though full of life and always ready to "go places."

But even if an older cat has passed known his heart around and is inclined to spoil a girl, I always think of him as a sugar daddy rather than a boy friend, and one's sugar daddy is under the future when they get quite old and you are still attractive.

★ ★ ★

I expect you'll think I'm awful talking about all this, but I've always wanted to meet a sailor cat, especially navy types.

They must be so interesting and refreshing after all the dull cats you find who never go anywhere but on the same old tiles and up and down the same old alley.

I think of you as young, gay, and, of course, gallant, and would love to have a photograph of you.

When you have leave in England do pop in and see us. My people are awfully reasonable about callers and the butcher's awfully generous about lights. Don't forget now.

Your sincere admirer,

Lottie Gubbins.

Palm Court Conversation

Margaret's father's spending his holidays following the Danish Vikings about shouting "Skaal" and drinking Scotch out of the horns of cattle."

"My husband says if schoolmasters are summoned for assault every time they hit a horrid little boy we shall be a nation of gangsters in 20 years' time."

"If we eat the food at this hotel much longer we shan't live to see it."

"Margaret's father wrenched the cat's horse from a bird in his sister's house. He says they have been frightening her for years, so he's glad to find a proper reason for them."

"I can never understand why people have holidays. If the weather's cold you feel you've wasted your money, if it's hot you feel irritable, stupid and thoroughly ill."

"One look at the pier, the winter gardens, the rock gardens and the plain, wholesome girl who is always Miss Something or other, and I want to go home."

"Don't say a change will do you good, but so far as most of us are concerned a holiday is no more than a change of cocktail bars."

"Margaret's father wants to build an English Viking ship, row to Russia on a good will voyage and drink vodka out of samovars."

INVERTED LOYALTY

For many years the Philadelphia team of the National Baseball league, was an unusual institution.

It used to fill its fans with an inverted sense of loyalty unmatched anywhere on this green planet.

Some years ago, when the Phillies, with a long-term lease on the National league basement finished as usual below sea -evel the fans assembled to give the club a banquet.

You do not stumble upon many towns where the citizens throw a banquet for a tail-end team. This attitude towards a losing club seems to be a consequence of inhaling the rich Philadelphia air, which makes everyone who lives there, especially the ball players, hospitable to others.

Philadelphia, you can see, is justified in being called the City of Brotherly Love.

PHUTILE PHILS ERUPT

This year the Phutile Phlies have erupted with all the fury of a donkey with a burr under the saddle. And they are know known as the Phighting Phils as they ride in third place in the National league.

But this transformation has had a reverse effect on the Pailly fans. Instead of cheering now that the Phils are breathing down the necks of St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers, the fans are going out of their way to lose ball games for the team.

I do not know if the most recent escapade of the Philadelphia supporters caught your eye. It was a most bizarre gesture toward a winning club.

Last Sunday several fans in the bleachers tossed a ton of pop bottles on the field when umpire George Barr ruled that outfielder Richie Ashburn had failed to hold a fly ball from the bat of New York Giants' Joe Lafata.

The ensuing rhubarb resulted in the game being forfeited to New York, thus cutting short a six-game Philadelphia winning streak. It also left the club open to a possible $1,000 fine.

I do not mean to infer that all those participating in the melee desired to lose a ball game for the dear old Phils. But it is logical to assume that someone, perhaps the mayor, stirred up a faction of the fans to show their displeasure with the upswing of the Phils.

I say the mayor may have instigated the riot because at the testimonial dinners to the Phils that gentleman was the chief speaker. And as such he always had a chance to crack-wise across the remains of the fare at a helpless audience. When he had sure-fire material like a cellar club, the party was made to order.

It is logical to assume then, that the mayor helped lead the donnybrook as a gesture of disapproval over the manner in which the Phils were double-crossing their loser-loving constituents.

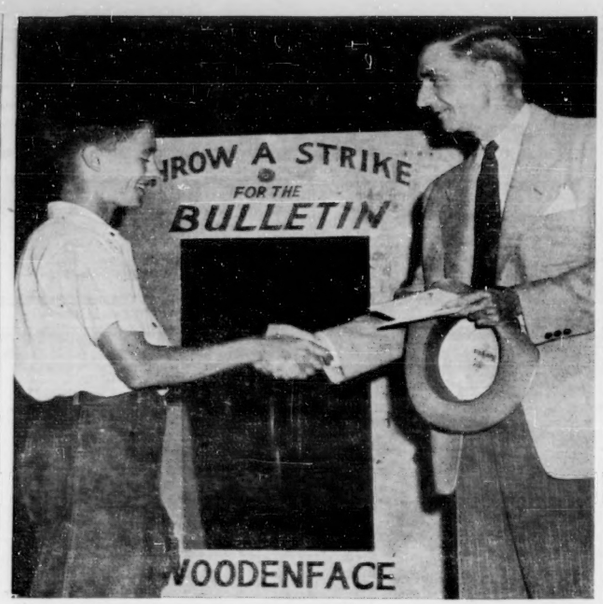

The incident had other ramifications as well. For one thing, Philadelphia president Bob Carpenter said that "if my club is fined $1,000, I'll demand that Umpire Barr undergo an eye test."

It is submitted here that an ocular test of Mr. Barr would have far-reaching consequences. For example it could mean that all those Umpires Barr has been graduating from his umpiring schools might be afflicted with astigmatism or squint.

And since Barr proteges have infiltrated almost every league worth infiltrating, it would take several generations of seeing-eye dogs to improve their visual shortcomings.

This would create a boom in the seeing-eye dog business but would set the Progressive Baseball Movement back to the Stone Age where the game was called Rounders and umpires were not yet invented.

On the lighter side it is reported that one of the men pitching pop bottles last Sunday showed a good change of pace. Next time he'll be smart he will signs this bleacher beanballer for relief duty during the closing weeks of the campaign.

LAST NIGHT was big one in young (13 ye ars) life of Rod Cleary. Winner of Bulletin's annual Woodenface competition, youn gster received top award from Tom Dwan, assistant publisher of Bulletin, as all-city p layground test wound up at Renfrew Park.

Rod Cleary Wins Bulletin's Woodenface Trip to Calgary

Last night, as the Bulletin's annual Woodenface competition concluded at Renfrew Park, courtesy of John Ducey, 13-year-old Rod Cleary made it stick.

Representing McCauley playground, Cleary earlier in the eliminations had dethroned Bruce Clarke, last year's winner. And last night, pitted against Giles Meikle, Ritchie playground, and John Balcock, Westmount, the champ from the east end of the city came through like a big-leaguer to win an expense-free trip to Calgary.

Young Cleary's on-to-Calgary jaunt will get underway during the Big Four Baseball league playoffs. He will travel to the southern Alberta city as guest of the Bulletin, sit in on one of the playoff games, then stay in Cowtown overnight.

Giles Meikle was the first of the sections champions to do his stuff last night. While upwards of 1,500 fans on hand to see Esks and Cubs do battle offered every encouragement, the south side youngster trimmed the count to three and two before 'walking' Woodenface.

Then it was the turn of westender John Baldock. He met the same fate as Meikle, the stirring running out all the way before he tossed off ball four.

This left the door wide open for Cleary and he promptly made the most of it. He started with a pair of strikes, came in with a 'waste' pitch, and then threw the baseball down the middle for strike three and a first place finish.

Once Cleary had demonstrated his superiority Tom Dwan, assistant publisher of the Bulletin, took over and presented the awards. As runners-up, Giles Meikle and John Baldock received merchandise vouchers, courtesy of businessmen-sportsmen Cal Pickles and Henry Singer, respectively.

In addition 13 others, winners of playground championships, received attractive "T" shirts, complete with Woodface crests, courtesy of the Hudson's Bay Company and The Bulletin.

Cecil (Tiger) Goldstick, representing the Recreation Commission, conducted the Woodenface competition in grand fashion.

Art Ward, well known sportscaster, handled the public address end of the proceedings as he curtain came down last night.

Laprade Inks New Contract

NEW YORK, Aug 24—(CP)—Edgar Laprade, crack centre for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, has agreed to terms and will report to the Rangers' Lake Placid training camp next month, manager Frank Boucher announced yesterday.

Laprade had indicated at the close of last season that he might retire from professional ranks. Boucher, however, visited him at his Port Arthur, Ont., home recently and apparently talked him into signing. Laprade was in Mine Centre, Ont., turned down pro offers for many years while he played for Port Arthur Bear Cats.

Rated one of the best stickhandlers in the NHL, Laprade had his best goal scoring year last season with 18, to which he added 12 assists for a point total of 30.

The 29-year-old pivot man won the Calder Memorial trophy as the league's outstanding rookie in 1945-46, the year he broke into pro ranks with the Rangers.

After last season Laprade unloosed a verbal barrage at the type of hockey played in the NHL. He was quoted as saying 'in Port Arthur that big-league hockey is "terrible" and that "the small fellow with some ability is smashed by the guy with muscle."

He added that Rangers finished last "because they lack experience in a game which puts brawn before brains."

Regina Signs Milford

REGINA, Aug. 24—(CP)—Howie Milford, who played for the Lethbridge Native Sons of the Western Junior Hockey league for the past two seasons, has been signed by Regina Caps of the Western Senior league, Cliff Ehrle, manager of the Capitals announced here today.

Milford will attend New York Rangers' camp at Lake Placid but will return to Regina, Ehrle also announced that coach Art Somers will attend the Chicago Black Hawk training school at North Bay, Ontario, to try and line up some more talent for Regina.

Legionnaires Square Senior Fastball Final

Legionnaires bounced back with a vengeance at Kingsway Park last night to deadlock the best-of-three senior men's northern Alberta fastball championship series with Precisions.

The Legion brigade topped Precisions 5-2 on a six-hit hurling performance by Bill Wood. Final game in the round is billed for Kingsway tonight.

Legion got cracking in the first inning, scoring two runs on singles by Emory Long and Colin Kilburn, and Al Miller's towering triple to right field. They were never headed thereafter.

KILBURN HOMERS

Successive singles from the bats of Bill Feeney, Ken Johanson, and Wood sent Legion ahead 3-0 in the second frame. And Kilburn's home run with bases empty in the third moved Legionnaires four up. An error, a balk, a passed ball, and Stu McCaskill's sacrifice produced the final Legion tally in the seventh.

Precision batters got into Wood on only one occasion—in the third inning. At that time Ray Sutton smashed a home run to centre with Doug Anderson perched on second base, scoring both Precision counters.

Rightfielder Kilburn's two clouts paced an eight-hit Legion attack, and Johanason contributed a pair of singles. Wood struck out seven.

ELMER'S GOT ITCHY FEET

Lach Changes Mind, Will Play This Year

MONTREAL, Aug 24—(CP)—Elmer Lach, who amassed an unenvied assortment of plain and fancy fractures during a nine-year National Hockey League career, has revoked his retirement declaration and will return to the ice wars.

General manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens said today Lach will report to Canadiens' training camp at St. Hyacinthe, Que., Sept. 15.

The decision was left entirely to Lach, who twice suffered a fractured jaw last season. Despondency over his misfortunes and missing the Stanley Cup playoffs, Lach announced his retirement after the close of the season.

Complete recovery and competitive spirit have caused Lach to change his mind.

The return of the starry, 31-year-old centre player will bolster the chances of the team that at the moment is pretty much intact from last season.

Although Canadiens, rich in capable defencemen, would not be averse to a deal that would bring more forward-line strength, there is no official inkling of any swaps, purchases or sales.

What might happen by the time the NHL season opens in mid-October is something else. There have been all sorts of off-season rumors, some of them smoking up trades that would parallel the Detroit-Boston swapping orgy of last week

Ryan Enjoys Big Night As Cubs Plaster Esks

Motormen Hang Big 13-2 Defeat on City Rivals

By Stan Moher
(Sports Editor)

Jim Ryan, Cub first-sacker, is another of those ball tossers who wears glasses all same Dominic (Little Professor) DiMaggio, Bob Dillinger and a few more hard-hitting major leaguers.

And Mr. Ryan, a one-time member of Winnipeg Maroons in the Northern loop, enjoyed all the best of it on a passel o' guys who don't go for the cheaters as the Junior Bruins ambushed Ralph Morgan's Esks by a 13-2 count at Renfrew Park last night.

In fact for a time it appeared that the hefty Cub slugger was intent on losing all the baseballs on the premises as he showed a keen liking for the southpaw slants of Ed (Boom Boom) Belter.

After Esks had opened with a run in their first time at bat the Cubs, paced by Ryan, blew the contest wide open with six big counters in the second inning.

By way of softening up Belter for what was to come, Ryan socked his first offering of the inning far over the centre-field barrier some 370 feet from where Ed Morris was operating behind the plate as Belter's battery-mate.

In quick order Jack Hobson and Bernie Anderson drew bases-on-balls and Slim Clovinski, Doug Stewart, Des O'Connor, Reg Clarkson (a double) and Ryan, up for the second time in the inning, clicked for base-hits.

Before Hobson, also at the plate for his second jaunt of the frame, skied to Cliff Johnston in right field for the third out, Cubs had put together six runs.

Slow Curves Baffle Esks

Then and there Cubs might just as well have laid off with their war-clubs. Inning after inning came and went Esks failed to do a thing to the offerings of slow-curve artist John McManus. As it proved those half-dozen runs were more than ample to sidetrack the Morgamen on this occasion.

However, Ryan, for one, wasn't inclined to pull any punches.

He came up again in the fourth inning and presto! Once more the ball sailed over the fence in centre, not more than 10 feet from where his first shot had landed.

Well, to make a long story longer, the husky who operates at first base wound up the night with three hits in four trips and a total of three runs-batted-in.

Along about the seventh inning Manager Morgan finally sent the derrick out for Belter. Fittingly enough the southpaw's pitching rival, McManus administered the kayo sock. Latter hit a hard hopper down to first base that all but tore a finger off Ted Tappe.

Apparently manager Morgan didn't mind how hard Cubs hit that ball just as long as no one got killed. But this was going a bit too far. He thumbed Belter to the bench and another wrong-arm, Elmer Thomas, trudged in from the bull-pen and easily held Cubs in check the rest of the way.

Someone Was Sleeping

As Belter departed the scene he left behind a legacy of 16 hits and 12 runs, of which eight were earned. Definitely it was not his night. Those Ryan homers in the early innings killed him for sure.

Cubs' third-sacker Des O'Connor also hit the ball out of the playing field in the seventh inning for what should have been a home run. However, just after rounding first base, he unwittingly passed Anderson, a base-runner at the time, and was called out. Instead of a homer he wound up with a single and became the second out of the inning.

The O'Connor drive just clicked the top of the fence in right field, almost dead on the foul-line, and bounced over.

Esks got to McManus for 11 hits. But there wasn't a sign of an extra base blow in the lot and all they could boast of at the finish was one earned run.

McManus, a slightly built right-hander from Manitoba, doesn't throw the ball hard enough to break open chocolate eclair. But he seems to use it to throw and in his own way is a highly effective bowler.

At least he was last night as he racked up his fourth win of the Big Four league season against one defeat. Cubs drew two games in front of last season's champions in the first place duel the local entries have been waging for weeks.

Stampeder Gridders Likely to 'Stay Put'

'Midst all this talk about 'tampering' and 'raiding' in Canadian football circles at least one point appears firmly established: Edmonton Eskimos aren't likely to pick up any talent from the dominion-champion Calgary Stampeders.

An Eskimo official disclosed yesterday that negotiations with Ken Kier aren't likely to lead to the young Calgary lineman coming here.

Earlier, Stampeder coach Les Lear accused Eskimos of approaching several of his star players, including American imports Woody Strode and Keith Spaith.

However, Edmonton spokesmen maintain that Kier was the only object of their affections in the Calgary camp because last spring he indicated a desire to play with the Edmontons. Since that time he is believed to have signed a Canadian Union form for Calgary.

Reason for Lear blasting the Esks appears to stem from Stampeder prosperity. For sometime now it has been common knowledge that the Calgary club will gross well over $100,000 this season.

Knowing this Strode and Spaith, among others, attempted to browbeat more cash for their services out of the Stamps by saying they had received better offers from Edmonton.

This action caused Lear to 'pop off' and subsequently brought on an Edmonton denial.

HOT OFF THE GRID . . .

Manager Al Anderson was busy last night getting autographs from several players on CRU playing forms . . . Among those to sign were centre Andy Marefos and flying wing Frank Hickey. . .

What of Ray Frederick?

Purely personal observations . . .

That popular question hereabouts, "Will Ray Frederick, starry Brandon Wheat King netminder of last season, hang his goalie tack in Flyers' dressing room this year?" may have been answered by coach Frank Currie ere he departed for the east the other day.

"Looks like he's coming with us, alright," the unusually reticent Flyer boss admitted to a fellow he had reason to confide in.

On the other hand we got it the other afternoon from Brandonite Art Townsend (The Axeman, who else?) that Frederick had decided to cold shoulder the Flyer offer.

Said Townsend: "He told me the one thing he was certain of was that he was not going to Edmonton." Then in the next breath The Axeman suggested that "Frederick isn't such a bargain, anyway."

One thing is certain: Frederick has a stack of offers from amateur and pro clubs that he can't see over.

Which reminds us: Whatever became of Keith Woodall?

Cleveland Indians can be counted out as real-life contenders for the American league pennant. Of late they haven't been able to do a thing against even such shoveovers as St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators.

And that, Bub, is the test.

Joe Louis to Try Comeback

According to some of the regulars on Jacobs Beach there's a good chance that Joe Louis will do a comeback in 1951. For one thing plans have been laid for the now not-so-lean Brown Bomber to go on exhibition tour at the close of the present outdoor season, as it's known in the Excited States.

If the ex-heavyweight ruler looks any part of his former self in the process of flattening the assorted bums that will be lined up against him, he'll hit the baths and the road in an all-out effort to get back into serious fighting trim.

After which he'll go looking for Ezzard Charles, assuming that Double Z still is champion in those 47 states that now recognize him as king of the heavies.

Idea of Louis doing a comeback sounds loony alright. But don't bet against it.

Onwitch, winner of six races in as many starts this season, is no part of a cinch to make it seven in a row in the Kindergarten stakes at Calgary today.

As a matter of fact we have a hunch that Storm Belle, if it gets to start, will snap the win skein of trainer Spud Murphy's hitherto unbeaten two-year old.

One of Those '40-Cent Cheques'

Behind the scenes John Ducey, Frank Wolfe and others who have a grade A interest in whatever box-office success is enjoyed by Esks and Cubs are burned up over the fact that Calgary Buffaloes are no part of an attraction at Renfrew Park.

It costs management of Cubs and Esks a hefty piece of change each time Buffs spend a week-end at the park in the valley. Local ball fans—who can read those Big Four league standings as well as the next guy—want no part of the hapless Buffs.

They all but picket Renfrew.

Undoubtedly Buffs will be given an off-season shot in the arm before the 1950 Big Four jamboree gets underway.

As one of the players said last time Buffs did their stuff (what stuff?) in these parts, "I understand they're going to spend more money next year."

That often helps, Mr. Jim Cross.

Cubs shot up Eddie Belter for 16 hits in the six innings he toiled for Esks at Renfrew Park last night.

He should have been out of there long before the seventh.

How come he wasn't manager Ralph Morgan . . . how come?

Eskimos to Serve Hot Football T

(This is the second in a series of two articles on the T-formation by Dick Beddoes, Bulletin sports writer. Today's concluding feature deals with the T as applied to the line.)

How did the T get such a firm hold on the game?

That is elementary, my dear Watson. Football men everywhere were searching for an offense that would overcome the many advantages given to defensive play by modern rules.

For football seemed to be thundering to a deadly stop.

Jabbing, feinting and weaving are prime requisites in boxing. They pave the way for the knockout blow.

So, patterned after tactics of the ring, into the T went the new 'brush' blocks. This was a departure from the old style "hit 'em, rock 'em, and sock 'em" line play which only churned up the turf and left a soggy pile of players strewn over the area.

T-formation linemen charge through fast. Or they open wide to let the enemy in—then mousetrap the opposing players with blocks they can't see coming.

Line play embodies the by-pass technique, and T-backs usually have porous lines through which to wiggle for substantial gains.

The backs on T-formation teams all know they are potential playmakers. Even if he doesn't get the assignment to carry the ball, each back has a masking operation to carry out. He's got to make somebody on the defense chase him on every play, in order to leave undefended the spot where the actual ball-carrier will make his assault.

Coach Annis Stukus of the Eskimos is planning to employ the T for obvious reasons.

In Chuck Fenerbach, Earl Elsey, and Pat West he has three American backfielders who are schooled in the science of the T. And he feels that his line is better suited to brush-blocking, rather than power-blocking.

The T makes line blocking easier because the backs come storming through so quickly that all a lineman has to do is nudge a would-be tackler aside.

Timing is the key to the success of the T. Timing and fast-starting backs who can carry that ball a 'fur piece,' as they say in Georgia.

The T can be stopped. But only if the opposition crashes across and knocks everybody down on your side.

Canada is still in its first uproarious reception of the T. Coaches all over the nation see in it a simple method to teach their teams. For with proper material the T is peaches and cream to astute coaches.

In Canada today variations of the T are being used by Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Calgary Stampeders, Toronto Argonauts, Montreal Alouettes, Ottawa Roughriders, and Hamilton Tigers.

And there will be some T-parties on the Edmonton gridiron this fall too. In fact, Stukus hopes his football T will be hot and steaming, all ready for public consumption on September 5.

EDWARDS TO WORK AGAINST ESKIMOS

It's a good bet that manager Les Edwards will take over the pitching assignment for his club when the Motormen tackle Esks at Renfrew Park tonight in a Big Four Baseball league tilt.

"Looks like I'm it," he admitted following Cubs 13-2 pummelling of Esks last night.

Over in the other dressing room, where Esks were slowly donning street clothes while trying to figure out why Cubs' righthander John McManus had proven such a puzzle, head-man Ralph Morgan wasn't quite so definite.

"It'll be either Devine or myself," he narrowed it down.

A reporter lifted an eyebrow by way of surprise at his suggestion that he might pitch against the Cubs, to which Morgan made hasty explanation:

"I can throw as hard as that McManus. If he can win, why not me too?

Bombers Start Long Trek Back

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24.—(CP)—The perennially powerful Winnipeg Blue Bombers—except for last year that is—now are on the comeback trail.

Dislodged last year from their customary top rung in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, the Winnipeg entry in the new four-team loop looks for better things this season.

All in all, the 1949 Bombers will display a "new look"—A new coach; four new imports; and host of new Canadian material.

Foremost new face in the Bomber aggregation is Frank (Butch) Larson, former two-time American all-star end who takes over the coaching reins from Jack West.

Aside from early workouts, Larson received his first real glimpse of Canadian football last week when his Bombers dropped two exhibition tilts in the east. But the former Minnesota gridiron great came out of the battles well satisfied.

When the Bombers open the season here Saturday against Saskatchewan Roughriders, the team they tied last year in the regular schedule but were beaten on the points for-and-against record—they will feature four brand new imports.

Missing from the line-up are quarterback Don Hiney, centre Willie Daniels, tackle Johnny Westrum and end Frank Zojek—with burley Bob Sandberg only import holdover.

To fill in the gaps, Bomber officials spent the winter months lining up players whom they felt could make Bombers a contender against the Dominion champion Calgary Stampeders and the greatly strengthened Riders.

St. Loo Splits With Brooks

N.L. Flag Race Still Hazy; Yanks, Boston Both Lose

BROOKLYN, Aug. 24—(CP)—The "crucial" National League series between Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals started with an even split in Tuesday's doubleheader. Cards won the opener 5-3, but Dodgers won the second 4-3, leaving Brooklyn two games behind St. Louis.

Preacher Roe, working with only two days' rest, allowed Cards only eight hits in second game, scoring his 10th victory against four losses. He didn't allow a hit after the fifth inning.

Howie Pollett, Cards' stylish southpaw wilted in the eighth when Dodgers broke a 3-3 deadlock. With one out Roy Campanella picked himself up after nearly being beaned and slammed the next pitch for a long double. Duke Snider followed with another two-bagger to bring in the winning run.

Stan Musial smashed his 21st and 22nd home runs in the doubleheader.

Boston Braves, scoring a pair of runs in both the seventh and eighth innings, came from behind to defeat Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-2.

A walk, a double and long flyball scored Andy Seminick with the winning run in the 13th inning as Philadelphia Phillies defeated Cincinnati Reds 4-3.

In the other National league game Chicago Cubs beat New York Giants 7-5, after the slumping Giants scored five in the ninth and almost pulled the game out of the fire. Joe Lafata, replacing Johnny Mize as the Giants' regular first baseman, didn't get a hit in four trips.

In American league play New York Yankees lost 8-4 to Detroit Tigers, but still held their 2½ game lead over Boston Red Sox who lost 5-4 to St. Louis Browns.

At Detroit lofty Hal Newhouser beat the Yanks for fourth time this year, yielding 10 hits but being helped by fierce batting by his teammates. Three Tiger home runs figured in the decision. Yanks did not use Johnny Mize, great first-baseman of New York Giants whom they obtained in a surprise trade Monday. Mize was in batting practice but did not see action. Allie Reynolds was starting and losing pitcher for Yanks.

Cleveland Indians, now five games off the pace, suffered a chilling setback to their pennant hopes when they were beaten 4-2 by Washington. Rae Scarborough allowed Cleveland only six hits, snapping Washington's losing streak at 11 straight. Bob Lemon was losing pitcher.

Pitcher Joe Coleman won his first major-league game as Philadelphia Athletics defeated Chicago White Sox 4-2, and St. Louis Browns beat the Boston Red Sox when Jackie Graham banged his 20th home run with one on.

Paddy Arnold Edged In Canadian Open

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24.—Alberta champion Paddy Arnold of Calgary was an early victim in first round matches of Canadian Ladies' Open golf championship yesterday.

The tall blonde star from Calgary's Country Club found the Billy Capilano Golf club a tough nut to crack as she lost out to Miss Grace DeMoss, Corvallis, Wash., 2 and 1.

Winner of the Alberta golf crown at Edmonton's Highland's Golf club recently, Miss Arnold was low scorer of the Alberta Interprovincial team.

First day spotlight was turned on defending champion Grace Lenczyk of Indian Hill Country Club, Newington, Conn.

The woman with the mannish stance downed Mrs. H. Winder, of Vancouver 7 and 6 in the most decisive match of the day.

At the top half of the draw, winsome Pat Lesser, 16-year-old Seattle high school student advanced to the second round as she counted a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. R. Cleat of Vancouver.

Shooting par golf over rolling Capilano golf course, gum-chewing Miss Lenczyk was five holes up at the ninth and finished the match on the 12th green.

Miss Lenczyk, United States women's champion and rated North America's top woman amateur, is defending the Duchess of Connaught Gold cup which she has taken for the past two years.

Miss Lesser, pig-tailed sensation of the qualifying round, also shot steady even-par golf till her match ended on the 16th. Her card included two birdies and two one-over-par holes.

In probably the most stunning upset of the day, youthful shotsmith from Welland, Ont.—20-year-old Ann Sharp—downed Toronto's veteran Ada MacKenzie, 4 and 3. She, too, shot par golf. Miss MacKenzie, 39-year-old golfer from the Toronto Ladies' club, is a five-times winner of the open.

Bobbed-haired 19-year-old Dainty Chisholm, of Montreal, scored a minor upset as she beat Mrs. Rena O'Callaghan, Vancouver, 3 and 2.

Babs Davies, who Monday won the Canadian Ladies Closed Amateur tourney, had little trouble turning back Mrs. P. Godden, of Vancouver, 4 and 2.

ELSEY SCOUTS CALGARY GAME

It was reliably learned this morning that Earl Elsey, star running halfback and backfield coach of the Edmonton Eskimos, will leave Edmonton tonight to scout the exhibition football game Thursday night between Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampeders in Montreal.

On the return trip he will meet line coach Biff Radevich in Winnipeg Saturday to scout the opening game in the Western Conference between the Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

In the Canadian rockies the scenery changes by the hour and tourists come thousands of miles to watch it. IN OUR Province

How to Relax In One Hard Lesson

By Ken Liddell
Provincial News Editor

The other day while reading a Montreal weekly newspaper we came across a picture of Anne Baxter, who is a movie actress.

The same day, too, in a railway sleeping car we noticed that the porter's name was Union Beard.

Nothing funny about the fellow's name. Just struck us as being rather unusual. Nice chap he was.

But there was something very funny about this picture of Anne Baxter.

* * *

The picture showed Miss Baxter leaning on what appeared to be the side of a cliff.

She was standing on her left foot.

Her right foot was tipped and her toes were pointed.

And if you know anything about photography, you will know she was doing that to make her ankles look neater.

* * *

For further support, Miss Baxter in this particular picture was leaning with her right hand on the cliff.

And she had her left hand on the top of her head.

She was wearing a bathing suit.

But what caught our eye was what was printed under the picture.

It said: "Actress Anne Baxter relaxes on coast of California after finishing new movie".

Try it sometime after a hard day at the office or out in the fields.

Hoist Helps In Building

DRUMHELLER, Aug. 24 — Two young Drumheller businessmen, Adam Fulton and G. W. Briggs, have constructed a device designed to do away with the normal scaffolding used in building.

The equipment, resembling a large tripod, will gee action within the next few weeks as they double the size of their business premises, the Fulton Welding Shop.

Plans for the time and labor saver were worked out by Fulton and Briggs primarily as a means to save lumber in erecting scaffolding and at the same time do a multitude of jobs. It is likely that the machine which has a hoist equipment lift, will be used as firm equipment in future years in working on large trucks and heavy mine equipment.

First War Resort Experiencing Boom

STETTLER, Alta., Aug. 24.—(CP)—Rochon Sands, popular central Alberta lake resort before the First World War, is experiencing a new tourist boom. It used to be the custom of central Alberta residents to crank up the old Model T and head for Rochon Sands at Buffalo Lake, 12 miles north of here. Attendance dwindled until this year when a number of new cottages were built and the beaches again became crowded with weekend visitors.

Grant Talk At Calgary

RED DEER, Aug. 24— Red Deer city council this week decided to send representatives to a meeting in Calgary when amounts of government grants, particularly educational, will be reviewed.

Council authorized representation of one alderman and representative of the school board. Request to be represented was received from Calgary city council. Date of the meeting has not been set.

The mayor and commissioner were delegated to attend annual convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities in Calgary on Oct. 6 and 7.

Sitting as the town planning commission, councillors approved re-division of the VLA holdings into small lots. This is the area where 50 wartime house are to be constructed by the Shoquist Construction Company.

Three Seek Council Seat

VEGREVILLE, Aug. 24 — Three aspirants for municipal honors filed nomination papers for the single vacany on the town council occasioned by the death of H. L. Bender.

The candidates are R. F. Torpy, one of the proprietors of Vegreville Motors Ltd.; W. S. Walden, implement dealer and John Kuzyk, Canadian National Railway employee.

Doubling Up Hard on Fish

DRUMHELLER, Aug. 24—Merle Van de Kinder, moving into undisputed first place in the "big five derby", sponsored by the Drumheller Valley Fish and Game Association and The Mail, firmly believes that big pike travel in pairs.

Shortly after Van de Kinder, with a catch of 10 pounds six ounces, took over first place in the event, he caught a 12-pound whopper in the same place on the Red Deer river.

Winner of the derby last year and present holder of the 10 inch silver cup is Maurice Van de Kinder, a brother of the present leader. Leader for the past several weeks was Roddy Cormier, of Newcastle, with a pike well over nine pounds in weight.

MONEY WEATHERS STORM

Enough Left to Cash But Without Interest

MILLET, Aug. 24—Three years ago, while plowing, C. H. Marr lost his wallet with $10 in it. Since that time the field has been plowed several times and burned over.

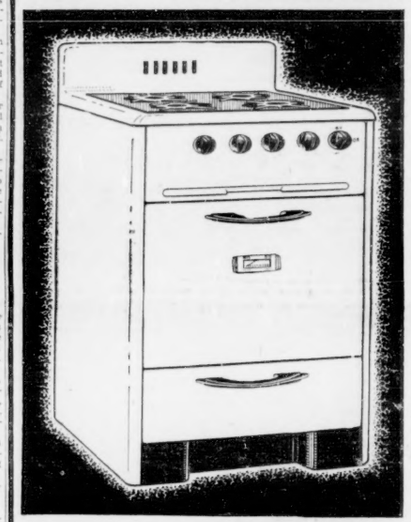

This summer the wallet turned up—hard, partly burned and so badly mildewed it could hardly be opened.

However, there remained a semblance of the $10 bill adhering to the leather with only a part of the serial number readable.

The whole thing was sent to Ottawa and Mr. Marr in return received a new $10 bill.

NAZI ME109 nine years ago shot down J. H. G. "Butch" McArthur over English Channel when he flew Spitfires similar to this one. Butch more than evened score, destroying 13 enemy craft and winning DFC. Now on leave from RCAF Winter Experiment here, McArthur leaves Thursday for Cleveland as Empire's first entry in international air races. Imperial Oil sponsors entry with high-octane fuels and lubricants. McArthur saved pennies and bought Spitfire from War Assets.

Highway Is Seen As Antidote

Federal Minister Says Construction To Ease Recession

Construction of a Trans-Canada Highway would provide jobs for many Canadians if a business recession should develop, Reconstruction Minister Hon. Robert H. Winters said yesterday.

The young cabinet minister made this observation just before boarding a TCA plane for the west coast after spending a day in Edmonton discussing housing with provincial government and civic officials.

The reconstruction ministry has charge of many planned projects designed at taking up slack as and when unemployment should attain serious proportions in the Dominion.

"I can think of no better type of project to provide jobs than construction of the Trans-Canada Highway," the minister said. He could not say off-hand, how many would be employed he added, but the number would be considerable.

Other projects of a similar nature are reforestation of the Eastern Rocky Mountain slopes for reforestation of normal water tables on the prairies, on which a start has already been made under joint Dominion-Provincial auspices and bridging of the Straits of Canso in Nova Scotia, a $13,000,000 project for which surveys are now being made.

RAILWAY TOO

Then there is the extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in B.C., to which the federal government is pledged, he said.

"I am determined that employment will be provided through works of a lasting and profitable nature that will help develop Canada. I am determined too, there will be no return to the kind of public works of the 1930's when men were put at planting daisies and other silly jobs," Mr. Winters said.

The minister said he held an interesting and profitable discussion on housing problems with Hon. A. J. Hooke, Alberta minister of economic affairs.

"I heard what the province is prepared to offer in the way of housing plans and told Mr. Hooke how the federal government would assist. Mr. Hooke said our discussions would be brought to the attention of the provincial cabinet at an early date," Hon. Winters said.

The federal minister also had a talk with Edmonton's Mayor Harry Ainlay about housing and the Trans-Canada Highway.

Just before boarding the plane, Mr. Winters said:

"I am very hopeful that a housing plan will be developed out of these talks with provincial government heads that will be of benefit to all Canadians."

HANDICAP is familiar term in golf. War veteran Frank A. Kirk of Edmonton has a real handicap but plays sparkling game. Despite loss of left arm in war he's skilled on links. Kirk shows class in sinking putt here.

Golfing Messenger Scores in Low 50s

By Jack DeLong
Bulletin Staff Reporter

If you have a lot of personal worries take up golf. Then you'll have so many new troubles you'll forget all about the old ones.

That's the mental therapy propounded by Frank A. Kirk of 9606-75 avenue.

Kirk ought to know what he's talking about. He plays golf skillfully and well with only one arm.

The one good arm he has is badly shattered.

Kirk, who is employed at the main branch of the Bank of Montreal here lost his arm one dreadful Christmas Eve while serving with the crack special service force of Canadians and Americans near Cassino in Italy. It was on December 24, 1945 that a German shell ended the army career of Kirk.

He lost his left arm above the elbow and his right arm and shoulder muscles were badly injured.

He spent three long years in military hospitals including two in the Col. Mewburn Pavilion in Edmonton.

But the young war veteran is possessed of a dauntless spirit.

TAKES UP GAME

He made up his mind his crippling wounds were not going to keep him from having fun.

He decided to take up golf.

Now he's a familiar figure around Edmonton golf courses where he turns in scores in the low fifties for a nine-hole tour.

His best score ever was a 47 shot at Edmonton Municipal golf course.

His drives are straight and true and average better than 200 yards. His best distance was about 250 yards.

He uses all clubs with proficiency.

Driving, putting or playing the mid-iron are all the same to golfer Kirk. He doesn't find one phase of the game more difficult than another.

Kirk doesn't just play golf because he wants to prove anything to himself either.

"I really enjoy the game, and when I play golf I forget other troubles," he says.

There's another trouble brewing for Golfer Kirk, however. That's Mrs. Kirk, who is becoming a bit restive over being a golfing widow.

"I'll have to get her to take up the game, too," laughed Kirk.

The Kirks have three children.

In addition to being a good golfer Kirk is an ardent bowler and plays this game regularly throughout the winter season.

Despite the fact he has only one arm, Kirk never was bothered by slicing until recently. He explains it this way:

"As soon as I tried to improve my game I started to develop a slice. When I first started and knew nothing about it I had no trouble," he grinned.

City Pilot Enters Cleveland Air Race

Imperial Oil Sponsors Entry of Modified 'Spit'

By Victor O'Neill
Bulletin Staff Reporter

Screams of an angry Spitfire over Edmonton today were part of plans for this calendar date—and if sleepy residents were disturbed they'll know that "Butch" was at the controls.

In his normal role "Butch" is a gentleman officially because he is an officer of His Majesty's defence forces.

But dropping his DFC and his rank as Flight Lieutenant, such as he has done today in his quest for a long-coveted goal, James Henry Gordon McArthur is just plain "Butch" on his annual leave from RCAF Winter Experiment here.

For some unaccountable reason Butch needs $16,000.

So after knocking down 13 enemy aircraft with Hurricanes and Spits during the Battle of Britain he decided to enter the International Air Speed championship contest to be held Sept. 5 at Cleveland, Ohio.

That's why he saved his pennies and bought from War Assets one Spitfire fighter plane which was reconditioned here by Northwest Industries—and which has a five-bladed, variable-pitch propeller.

EYES $16,000

With one exception, Americans for the past 40 years have had it all their way in winning the "world championship" speed contests for piston propelled planes.

United States aviation circles still burn red at the ears when they remember that in 1936 a Frenchman entered the classic with a comparative "crate."

The monsieur beat out all other entries in that year.

His craft, developed with a powerful Rolls Royce "Griffon" engine, Butch can see no reason why he shouldn't fly off with the $16,000 first prize money in competition which holds out $40,000 in prizes.

IMPERIAL BACKING

The race is open to competitors of all countries.

Mr. McArthur said his entry was the first one from any Commonwealth country.

He says he believes he'll beat the rest of them on the 236-mile quadrangular course.

And there'll be a lot of Albertans pulling for the nerveless pilot.

His Rolls Royce craft will be fed on fuels and lubrication which has had its origin from Alberta's petroleum beds.

Imperial Oil Company of Canada is sponsoring Mr. McArthur's entry at Cleveland by providing all necessary high-octane fuel for the race and also to ferry the plane to the American city.

He expects to be in Winnipeg Friday. Toronto the same evening. On Saturday he will be guest of Imperial Oil officials at Toronto.

From then on he'll get down to the serious business of readying his air steed for the big bid.

Incidentally there's a fur coat in the offing for his wife and a new car for himself when he collects the 16 grand, he says.

Police Setup Still Unchanged

West Jasper Place still hasn't got the added police protection its residents have been clamoring for.

Attorney-General Lucien Maynard said today he had received a letter from Stony Plain municipal council asking for RCMP policing of West Jasper.

"But the letter didn't mention cost so I've written the council again to find out how much they're willing to pay."

NO INFORMATION

But Col. Gibson wasn't revealing any cabinet information.

He flew over the Arctic Circle, visited the famed Eldorado, but he wasn't saying whether or not he thought the Trans-Canada Highway should go through Yellowknife.

But it remained for the ministers son, Colin, Jr., to put an end to the questioning.

"Look," said he. "They gave me a real chunk of silver."

And so they had.

A DRINK!

Only One Thing Can Stop Him

At least the man's honest.

James Conley, 52, no fixed address, was found guilty of possession of stolen property in police court yesterday and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

He asked to be given 30 days starting from the date of his arrest so he could get out in time for the harvest.

"That would be the best thing that could happen if you got out of town," said Magistrate A. J. Millar. "But somehow we always find you hanging around town."

"No, no, Your Worship," said the accused piously. "I'll get out of town. I really mean it."

"And you are going to get out of town immediately you get out of jail?" said the magistrate doubtfully.

"Yes, yes, right away, Your Worship."

And then he added:

"If I don't get a drink first."

Food Brokers To Meet Soon

An effort to consolidate mutual problems of all industries dealing in any way with food is a leading item on the agenda of the seventh annual convention of Food Brokers' Association of Canada.

Convention will be held Aug. 31 to Sept. 4 at Jasper Park Lodge. About 100 delegates from all parts of Canada are expected to attend, secretary J. Nelson Penn said today.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Hon. N. E. Tanner, Alberta's minister of lands and mines. His subject will deal with Alberta's resources.

About 200 members of the association work as a service to wholesalers in securing food items, the secretary explained.

He said that during the war the association was chosen by the government in establish equitable distribution of foods bulk purchased and in short supply.

Present executive of the organization is composed of R. J. Bradley, Edmonton, president; J. Y. Ramsey, Edmonton, 1st V.P.; Ottawa, Edmonton, W. H. Dingle, Calgary, A. J. Chalmers, Vancouver and W. B. Grant, Winnipeg, executive members.

Dr. Hume Sees Alberta's Oil

Canada's government is more than interested in Alberta oil.

According to Dr. G. S. Hume, acting director of mines, forests and geological survey, Ottawa, the federal government has 70 geological and 37 topographical survey parties in the field.

"I share the general optimism of oil people as to the discovery of more fields," he said here yesterday.

Dr. Hume, one of the country's outstanding authorities on natural gas and oil, is here "to acquaint myself personally with the situation and prospects regarding oil in the west."

Confusion Ends in Fine

Confusion over liquor laws cost Stanely Caruk $20 in police court yesterday. He was charged with illegal possession of liquor.

The man, who has no fixed address in Edmonton, said he had recently arrived from Onatrio.

"In the east you're all right as long as the liquor isn't opened," he argued. "I thought the law was the same here."

He was arrested when he was found on the street late at night with one dozen bottles of beer in his possession.

New Hotel Start Seen By March

A link with Edmonton's historic development from a fur trading post will be provided in the projected $800,000, four-storey hotel to be built at the southwest corner of Jasper and 108 street.

It will be known as the Fort Edmonton.

Construction will start next March and will probably take a year.

Alberta Investment Ltd., bought the site from the city last spring, and officers announced building plans yesterday.

Included on its board of directors is H. B. Armstrong, vice-president of Western Supplies Ltd., A. V. Carlson, general contractor and Dr. W. Harold Brown, formerly of Edmonton and now living in Vancouver.

PREPARE PLANS

Fred H. MacDonald, Edmonton architect, is preparing plans for the new hotel.

It will be of steel and masonry brick with an attractive front of stone from Hardington Island, B.C.

In its initial four-storey stage, the Edmonton will have 120 bedrooms, and addition of six further two storeys will bring accommodation to 200 rooms.

Basement plans call for an assembly hall to accommodate 400, as well as several sample rooms.

The main floor will have a large dining room, coffee shop, barber shop, beverage room and other facilities.

Second, third and fourth floors will each have 40 bedrooms.

Big Traffic Display Will Mark Campaign

Car wrecks and bandaged victims littered along Jasper avenue will provide a climax to Traffic Safety Week.

Following an intensive safety campaign which starts Sunday, aimed at educating pedestrians and motorists in better traffic practice, the wrecks and victims will litter the north side of Jasper avenue on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 3.

St. John Ambulance Brigade will have an ambulance and cadets on hand to augment the efforts of AMA, Edmonton Safety Council, and Chamber of Commerce representatives to impress safety on onlookers.

At a meeting today, the central committee of the three organizations drew up final plans for the whole week's activities.

BIG CAMPAIGN

Newspapers, radio stations, and advertising managers of the four large department stores, have pledged complete cooperation, and all streetcars and buses will carry the safety message, the meeting was told.

Howard Stutchbury reported that advertising men are "honestly pleased at the chance to help out the campaign."

Each large department store has promised to carry a full window display boosting the campaign.

Plans are well in hand for a big mystery stunt involving a $50 prize for the most observant Edmontonian, educational police cruiser car with loudspeaker, and a special campaign aimed at careless pedestrians.

Bus Schedule Is Announced

Schedule and route of Calder gas bus service, expected to begin next Sunday, were announced today by Thomas Ferrier, superintendent of Edmonton Transit System.

Four buses will be used to give a 10-minute service during rush hours, and two will operate a 15 minute off-peak schedule.

They will operate from 118 avenue and 124 street west on 118 avenue to 127 street, north on the new paving on one side of 127 street to 129 avenue, then east on 129 to 118 street, where they will turn around and return over the same route.

Because paving will not be completed in time on 127 street to 126 avenue, the buses will operate over a temporary grade until the tram tracks are removed. One side of the street will be finished, and following removal of the tracks, the other side will be paved.

Picture Brings Happy Reunion

Reunion after 18 years resulted from the Bulletin's picture Monday of the election for a Beverly school trustee.

A. H. Jordan, 10533-76 avenue, a former resident of Beverly, moved from Beverly to Edmonton 18 years ago and lost track of an old friend, Abraham Abbott, a resident of Beverly.

Recently he has been trying to locate Mr. Abbott, and Monday's election picture did the trick. A happy reunion followed.

Jasper Place Meeting Off

The secretary-treasurer of the West Jasper Place Taxpayers' Association has announced cancellation of this month's general meeting.

Meeting of the suburban hamlet's association was set for August 26.

Next meeting will be held in September.

Police Probe $4,000 Theft

Royal Canadian Mounted Police today are investigating a bold robbery from the Savings and Credit Union office at Morinville, near Edmonton.

Thieves carried away the office safe containing about $1,000 and papers. They boldly packed it through the front door in the dark hours of early morning yesterday.

The safe weighed between 200 and 300 pounds and police believed it was packed away in a car or truck.

Secretary treasurer Roger Bougie said he found the front door unlocked when he went to work. Entry was gained through an office window.

Missing Man Turns Up Safely In California

William Bateman, 11851 70 street, missing since July 7, is now known to be safe in Sacramento.

Three days ago his wife received a letter from him stating that he was staying in California with his mother.

Bateman left home the morning of July 7 telling his wife he was going to look for work. The former oil worker was not heard from until the letter was received this week.

West End School Setup Causes Board Concern

Jammed schools and a jammed meeting harrassed members of Edmonton's Public School Board at its meeting in the Civic Block last night.

Lamenting the distribution of pupils in the west end of the city following the completion of the new Grovenor school, nearly 50 persons, comprising delegations from two public bodies, exchanged views with members of the Board for more than one hour.

At the close of the discussion the delegations left with the assurance of the Board that the allocation of pupils would be considered with a view to reaching a more agreeable settlement.

Delegations were from the Glenora Community League, headed by president Fred Purkis, and from the Grovenor Home and School Association headed by Earl H. Davison.

They filled the small public gallery at the Board's meeting room and overflowed into the fifth floor corridor of the Civic Block.

Chief objection of the delegations was to School Board's action in sending children from the area bounded by Stony Plain road on the north, 142 street, a ravine on the south, and 146 street to the Jasper Place school.

This action was taken by the Board following a survey and redistribution of pupils among the Glenora, Jasper Place and new Grovenor schools.

LONG WALK

There are 21 families in the area, a spokesman for the delegations stated, and 32 children in the grades from one to six. They would have to walk three-quarters of a mile to a mile to attend the Jasper Place School and in the course of a day would have to cross the heavily trafficked Stony Plain Road eight times.

A mother in the group also mentioned the possibility of molesters lurking in the bush along the ravine past which the children would have to pass enroute to and from school.

The Grovenor School being opened for the first time this September is immediately north of the area in question.

Superintendent of schools R. S. Sheppard said chief concern of the Board was to have a seat for every pupil, and added that every effort was being made to build adequate school accommodation as fast as possible.

CANADA'S MINISTER of mines and resources, Hon. Colin Gibson, was back in Edmonton yesterday after a tour of Alberta's northern mining projects. Mines minister, right, flew over Arctic Circle with L. E. Drummond, agent here for North West Territories administration, and R. A. Gibson, director of lands and development services branch, mines and resources. Col. Gibson left today for Jasper Park where he will join his family.

Ministers Cross Paths At World's Crossroads

By John McLean
Bulletin Staff Reporter

The big, good looking man with the brief case stepped into a giant TCA North Star. He was off to Vancouver.

At precisely the same moment the dapper, greying man, dressed in tweeds, stepped down from CPA's big airliner from the north.

They didn't meet or even see each other. They missed one another by seconds.

But the departure of Canada's reconstruction minister and the simultaneous arrival of this country's minister of mines and resources told the story of Edmonton's growing importance.

It's doubtful that Hon. Colin Gibson realized his cabinet colleague, Hon. R. H. Winters, was even in the same country.

But even if he had he probably wouldn't have raised an eyebrow. For Col. Gibson, like the people of this town, need aware that Edmonton is really on the map of Canada.

TRULY CROSSROADS

And so Edmonton's vast airport yesterday at 5:30 p.m. was the scene of just another indication that Alberta's oil capital is truly the crossroads of the world.

Reconstruction Minister Winters was in town on a tour of provincial

Breakfast Ware Sells At Pittance Prices

By Bea Thrifty

Brightly-hued pyrex ware has prompted another pottery firm to dash off an inexpensive array of breakfast dishes in a glory of blendable colors.

So inexpensive as to sell in 22 piece sets for $4.95. Now this is a pittance, if I do say so.

They look attractive, are somewhat heavy but would do very nicely if the budget needs a bit of pinching to squeeze new dishes into the shopping list.

Moorecraft Pottery people have come to the fore also with brilliant blue giant-size coffee cups . . . or use 'em for cocoa if you feel so inclined.

Smaller editions of the same will do for that morning cup of tea.

Prunes an' prisms is an old cliche I've never quite been able to sift down to an understandable size. But I do understand all about prune plums.

And they're here!

They're here for that big canning drive you're using your excess energy on these days. The purple plums are still in the small stages but qualities and quantities will improve with time . . . about ten days worth of time as a matter of fact.

* * *

I'm mighty partial to preserved plums if I do say so myself. They're one fruit the assembly-line canneries don't do justice by.

Incidentally a plum sauce goes mighty fine on a vanilla pudding or bread pudding. Try it if you're not adverse to sweets.

* * *

Everytime I go shopping with husband (which isn't often . . . men just don't seem to like shopping) I whine: Please buy me a red kitchen stool . . . hmmmm . .please.

Well this time I won.

And I know why. It's because even husband couldn't resist this bargain. It was a gay red step-ladder stool with the chromium trimmings 'n everything selling at a mere $4.75. So now our kitchen proudly boasts a fine new stool.

Wool jersey is leaping back to the fashion foreground for the office-working gal. Wearable, durable and easily kept, jerseys are here in a lush assortment of fine fall shades. I'm mighty partial to a russet-colored job with three-quarter dolman sleeves and a diagonal buttoned bodice.

This charmer goes to the lucky gal who can spend $23.50 on a new frock instead of canning supplies.

* * *

As for Junior . . . the lad who's off to school for the first time come September . . . look for and wide Mother dear before you chose his new outfit.

I'll whisper this . . . check for durability as well as what Vogue considers the well-dressed as old of fashion should be wearing.

Their little duds are mighty expensive it seems.

Calamity Contract Down Six Tricks

By William E. McKenney

There are some rubber bridge players who go along picking up a trick here and there, never making an unsound bid, never taking a chance. This type will win in the long run, but you will never find their game very exciting. It is a known fact to good rubber bridge players that penalties do pay off big.

Rubber—E-W vul.

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	I N T.	Double	Pass
Opening—♦ 10			24

H. S. Dinkelspiel, Jr., who used to be one of the outstanding players of New York, but gave up bridge for a good many years, gave me today's calamity hand. He told me he was going to do a little brushing up and come back into tournament competition.

When Dinkelspiel gave me this hand he said, "Mac, look the West hand over. South bid a heart and West bid one no trump, and he took only one trick. Doesn't that seem unbelievable?" I said no, remembering the hand I wrote up several weeks ago where I held four aces and took only one trick.

Here is how the play went on today's hand. Dinkelspiel won North's opening lead of the ten of diamonds with the ace. He returned the ten of hearts, West played the jack, North won with the king, and returned the five of hearts. Dinkelspiel played the nine-spot which was allowed to hold the trick. He continued with the queen of hearts, West winning with the ace.

West elected to make a peculiar play. He led the ten of clubs, hoping to induce the opponents to take the trick, thus establishing four good club tricks. Dinkelspiel won the trick with the king. He cashed his two good hearts. The jack of diamonds was led and held the trick when West wisely played low. He shifted to the deuce of spades. North won with the ace, then cashed all his good diamond tricks. A small spade was played and Junior won this with the king.

North and South won 12 tricks, setting the contract six tricks doubled, for a score of 1700 points.

Lady Mountbatten Praises Indians

If you are a little too slim, mild exercise will help. To build up the calf of your leg, this toe-pointing exercise described by Josephine Lowman today will help.

WHY GROW OLD

Too-Thin Women Fix Their Figure Faults

By Josephine Lowman

Amid the overwhelming cries for help of the over-weights come requests for help from the thin woman.

These run through the general picture much like a certain thread of color runs through a tapestry. The problems of the underweight woman are just as real and troublesome to her as the bulges are to her fat sister.

So, every once in a while I give a resume of the principles of gaining weight and the exercises which develop the spots she is usually worried about, namely: bust, neck, arms and calves.

Here are a few rules for the underweight girl or woman.

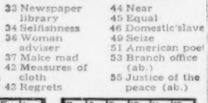

1. Get plenty of sleep, at least nine hours a night.
2. Do not hurry.
3. Do not worry.
4. Take short rest periods during the day whenever possible.
5. Relax completely before meals if this is at all possible. This means going into a room alone, lying down with eyes closed, no interruptions, and complete relaxation for a half hour or at least 15 minutes before a meal whenever you can.
6. Have a complete physical examination to determine whether there is any systematic or organic trouble.
7. Take mild exercise. Relaxing exercises, walking and swimming are fine.
8. Take exercises for bust development if you need them, also some to develop the calves. These are mild exercises but it done faithfully will improve the situation.
9. Be certain that your diet is well balanced and is vitamin and mineral-rich. Vitamin deficiency is one reason for underweight. Often the thin woman stuffs herself on rich, high-calorie foods to the neglect of fruits and vegetables, with disastrous results.
10. Take vitamin B complex capsules, or take Brewers' yeast daily. This is a cheap source of vitamin B family. Ask your doctor how many to take.
11. Eat five smaller meals rather than three big ones, if your appetite or digestion are faulty.

This exercise develops the calf. Sit on a chair. Cross your left leg over your right. Point your left toe toward the floor, hard. Hold. Relax. Repeat twenty times morning and night. Do the same thing with the right toe.

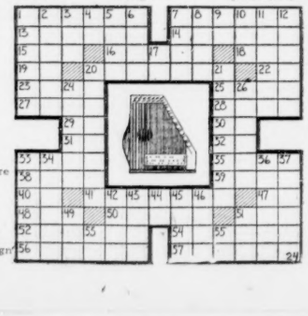

If you would like to have the leaflet I prepared for underweight women, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. 41. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Adoption Is Answer For Childless Couple

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

The natural desire of a loving, married couple is to have children. This is the seal upon their marriage and the insurance against a barren future.

When it is found, after years of marriage, that children are denied them their first thought should be adoption. This is the natural way to bring a parentless child into happy union with a childless parent.

Because the adoptive parent is under the same obligation to love, cherish and protect a "chosen" child; the choice should be made with care. When parents deal with a state licensed agency they have the assurance that the child they want will be mentally and physically normal, will be of the same race and religion and will have the same general physical characteristics.

In addition, all the legal formalities of getting both parents' consent to the adoption will clear away any future difficulties which might arise if either parent later demanded his or her own child.

Whether the child is a boy or girl should be of the smallest importance, as it would be if the child were born to them. But, it is important that the child be mentally alert and educable and while this can be told, in general, at birth it better to wait until the child is two or three months of age so that mental testing can be of some value.

It is quite possible to adopt a baby through the cooperation of a doctor and the courts. But the adoptive parent has to be very certain of the ethical standing of the doctor.

This would be a fruitless warning were there not so many unscrupulous individuals who prey upon the emotions and the desires of both sets of parents.

Parents who can give a child the loving care of a real parent can repaid a thousand fold by children who love them and whom they love as deeply as they would their own. It is a tragedy when any parent has to part with her own child; but when the child falls into the protective but empty arms of loving individuals, the child is blessed.

Our leaflet No. 85 "So You Want to Adopt A Child", points out some of the steps to be taken in this ceremony. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Let Child Make Decision That Don't Matter."

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Girl Should Prepare For Marriage Career

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you consider to be the qualifications of a real wife and helpmate? Should every girl take up domestic science and kindred training whether she intends to enter some profession or get married?

What training should a young man have in preparation for the responsibility of marriage and fatherhood?

L. T. E.

ANSWER: I think that the best qualifications for marriage is being good sports. If a man and woman have the spirit of fair play and are willing to give and take; if they can do good team work; if they have the courage to fight on when luck seems to be against them; if they can be gallant losers and take life as it comes without whining, they will win out every time in the end.

I am strong for girls being trained in all the domestic arts and sciences because no matter how rich or poor, how highly placed or how humble, how learned or how ignorant a woman may be, the two things she is sure to need at some time in her life are how to cook and sew.

If she is wealthy, it enables her better to supervise her establishment and manage her servants. If she is middle class, it enables her to dress more cheaply and have better food.

If she is poor, it gives her two trades whereby she can always support herself, for there are very few places in the world where there is not a continual need for good cooks and seamstresses.

Certainly no girl should dream of getting married and taking a man's stomach and pocketbook into her keeping until she has qualified as a domestic expert.

Many girls do, of course, and that is one reason that there are so many divorces, for many a young husband's first disillusion with his bride has come with the knowledge that she couldn't even fry the bacon that he brought home, and that she was throwing most of his hard-earned dollars into the garbage can.

Few subjects have provoked so many bitter and acrimonious disputes as the breakfast coffee. Enough tears have been shed over burnt toast to float a battleship, and many a happy and sunny-tempered young husband has been turned into a dyspeptic and bilious grouch by his wife's biscuits.

Nothing ties a man to his own fireside so tightly as does a good hearty dinner that makes him as disinclined to go out and hunt for adventures as a gorged snake. The wife who is a crackerjack cook has a charm in her pots and pans that works perennially three times a day.

Tobe on Fashion—

It's a Navy Blue Winter

Yes, navy blue for winter is what we said! Does that surprise you? Spring navy is an old American custom, but winter navy has appeared as the smart new dark winter color only in the past two years.

Women love it too—because it's just as useful as black, just as easy to wear with furs, and has more life than most dark winter colors.

Navy is wonderful in winter coats, especially in casual fabrics—fleecex, chinchilla, tweeds—but also in broadcloth.

Navy is stunning in crisp fabric dresses—satins, taffetas, brocades; and at the other extreme, in simple wool jerseys.

Pilgrimage Comes At Last to Londoner

LONDON—(CP)—To Mrs. Edith Stewart it's something of a miracle that at last she is going to make her pilgrimage to Lourdes.

As a little girl in Hull she was chosen to join a party going to the shrine in southern France. But her mother died and she couldn't go.

Next year she was chosen again. Her father died.

Then Edith put away her toys and took a job to help support her brothers and sisters. For 19 years she has been a London charwoman.

Now in her 30's, she's going to Lourdes in October.

'FRIEND AND HELPER'

Instrument Makers Use Artificial Sapphires

Dear Tawasis:

When your friend describes his new watch as being a 16-jewel, I wonder if you know exactly what he means by 16 jewels.

For many years watchmakers have used jewels as the pivots for the more important moving parts of clocks and watches, except in the cheaper varieties. If the watch is to wear well and tell the correct time over a period of years it is essential that the pivots must not wear out and so they are hard.

[illegible]

REAL ONES SCARCE

[illegible]

CAN BE COLORED

The addition of a [illegible] oxide gives it a red color, while iron and titanium produce a blue sapphire.

After the war started men soon realized that if they were going to produce clocks, chronometers, navigation instruments, altimeters and compasses, they would have to make their own sapphire pivots. Trade with France and Germany was cut off and Germany was the enemy of the allies and so no pivots would come from that source.

In Britain a company was formed and work commenced in the research laboratories to make successful artificial sapphires. The problems were solved so well that the artificial jewels made in Britain are supposed to be just as good as those imported from Europe before the war.

BEDTIME STORY

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Billy Mink loves to hunt. He is one of the best hunters among the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows. Not even Reddy Fox is a better hunter than Billy Mink. In the first place Billy has a wonderful nose. Then, too, Billy possesses sharp ears.

THE CHASE

The instant Billy Mink caught the scent of Robber the Rat at the edge of the hole in the floor of that barn he forgot all about [illegible] over in the henhouse. He popped up through the hole on to the barn floor, and his nose found [illegible] Robber the Rat [illegible] Billy Mink [illegible] Rowdy followed the scent of Robber the Rat [illegible] of the grain bin a big gray rat with [illegible] them. Almost at once the three rats came to the [illegible] Billy didn't stop to consider. He followed the largest one. He followed him with his nose. That was all he needed to guide him.

Now that rat knew every nook and corner and every hiding place in that big barn. Also he knew there was no place big enough for him to get into which Billy Mink could not get into and fear gave speed to his legs. Behind and under boxes, over grain bins, squeezing through narrow places, and racing across open spaces, the rat ran with Billy Mink behind him. At last he was cornered.

Instantly that rat changed completely. He whirled about and faced Billy Mink, showing savage teeth. He was big and strong, and he intended to fight. For [illegible] an instant Billy Mink stopped. Now a rat is quick, but Billy Mink is [illegible] quicker. He was [illegible] fire round, and he [illegible] back to fight again. He could [illegible] into it [illegible] Billy Mink [illegible] Billy Mink knew all about [illegible] muttered Billy, as he turned to go back to his nest home [illegible] the woodpile. "As long as there's such good hunting here in the barn, I'll keep away from the [illegible] house." Then he went home and curled up for a nap.

ENJOYING SIMPLE things in life are David Niven and Jane Wyman starring in "A Kiss in the Dark" which starts at Empress Theatre tomorrow. Other half of double bill is "Flaming Fury."

Flaming Fury Tells Story Of Work of Arson Squad

Taken straight from the files of the Arson Dept. of the Los Angeles Fire Department is "Flaming Fury," which starts at the Empress Theatre tomorrow.

"Flaming Fury" tells the story of how the Arson Bureau, alerted by the increasing number of criminally-started fires in Los Angeles, starts an all-out campaign to clean up the responsible racketeers.

ACT ON TIP

Tipped off by a meek little barber, who knows who has been responsible for a series of fires, the arson settlements would be balm to the slaughtered criminals.

The rookie, played by George Cooper, ingratiates himself into the good graces of the Los Angeles druggist who supplies the arsonists with the chemical they use to start their fires.

He meets the entire family of arsonists and after a series of harrowing and unexpected adventures, manages to bring them to justice in one of the most thrilling climactic scenes ever filmed.

The documentary type picture is brought to the screen with naked authenticity and searing realism.

Added realism is given the picture by the clever use by director George Blair of unknown actors.

Feature billed with "Flaming Fury" is "A Kiss In The Dark," starring David Niven and Jane Wyman.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW— By Fagaly and Shorten

Cost-of-Living Action Urged by U.K. Unions

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—Four of Britain's "Big Six" unions today called for stronger action to make the government cut the cost of living.

Attitude of the trade union leaders to the demand will be decided when the general council of the Trades Union Congress meets tomorrow to give final approval to its economic policy report for the annual conference next month.

DEMAND ON AGENDA

The four unions' demand has been put on the conference agenda.

They are the Transport and General Workers Union with 1,300,000 members, the Amalgamated Engineering Union, the Union of Shop, Distributive and Allied Workers and the National Union of Railwaymen.

The unions have made clear wage-pegging to keep down productions costs is acceptable if workers' real wages are boosted by price cuts.

With the support they could expect from smaller unions, the four unions could influence outcome of the conference and determine whether TUC leaders should go in for harder bargaining than in past negotiations with the government.

PRODUCTION COSTS

The general council has tabled a resolution that Britain's difficulties can only be solved by greater production at lower cost and by internationally-concerted efforts to maintain living standards and full employment.

The resolution calls for "the greatest possible measure of restraint" in making wage claims unrelated to increased productivity, and promises continued vigilance by the leadership on prices and profits.

The Transport and General Workers Union speaks of an "imperative necessity" for price cuts and reduced profits.

Engineers call for a stricter control of profits, fully-maintained subsidies, and tax cuts, and warn that the cost of living will be a major issue at the next general election.

OIL

Texaco Gets 1st Producer

By Don Flach

After drilling a dozen wells on its northern Alberta holdings in a search that cost more than one million dollars, Texaco Oil Company has completed its first producing well. The completed well is No. 11-10 at the north end of the Redwater field on rights obtained in a provincial sale more than a month ago.

After treatment with 2,000 gallons of acid, the well was put on a production test lasting three hours and flowed at the rate of 60 barrels hourly or 1,440 barrels per day.

Second Redwater well of the company, No. 12-5, is preparing to core for the D3.

Since the discovery of oil at Leduc, Texaco has drilled eight wildcat wells on its own and has farmed out locations to independents for tests. Each of the wells cost in the neighborhood of $90,000. In the case of farmouts, the drilling costs were borne by the independents with Texaco supplying the land.

HOME-ANGLO REPORTS

On a neighboring quarter section in the Redwater field the Home-Anglo team is drilling out the casing plug on top of the D3 and preparing to penetrate the producing formation.

In the Leduc field Home-Anglo No. 8 is drilling ahead in green shale at about 5,140 feet and No. 9 is drilling in the D2 around 4,950 feet.

On their newly acquired properties on the west side of the Leduc field the Anglo-Home-C. and E team expects to spud today. Drilling Contractors will drill the well.

PACALTA 2 GETS SHOW

In the Whitemud field New Pacalta got a rise of 290 feet of clean oil and a gas blow at the rate of 400,000 cubic feet daily in a drillstem test of the interval from 4,074 to 4,089 feet.

Also in the Whitemud area Imperial is exploring the beds above the Devonian at its Whitemud Nos. 3 and 4. No. 3 has made its 12th test from 4,167 to 4,182 feet with recovery in 45 minutes of 700 feet of sulphurous gassified salt water. No. 4 tested from 4,027 feet to 4,049 feet with valve open 50 minutes. Gas blow was 545,000 cubic feet daily and 66 feet of gassy mud was recovered. Preparations are being made for another test.

Hargal No. 2 is now in steady production and choked to produce about 100 barrels daily.

Flank No. 4, with bottom at 5,155 feet has re-entered the hole with core bit to enter the D-2 another six feet. When this core has been taken it is planned to take a drillstem test of the well.

Royalite Rosecam is drilling in the D-2 at 3,924 feet with the possibility of a drillstem test being made this afternoon. Stony Plain is drilling at 4,233 feet and Sharphead near Hobbema cemented 600 feet of surface pipe last night.

Gulf Bauer No. 4 in the Settler area is drilling at 4,496 feet in shale. At Redwater Bigoray 1 is drilling at 800 feet and Nos. 2 and 7 are rigging. No. 8 is drilling in shale at 2,740 feet.

Pacific Fort Saskatchewan got 10 and 20 feet of mud in successive drillstem tests at the 3,725 to 3,732 and 3,730 to 3,737 feet levels. The well is now coring at 3,742 feet.

Angelus Ashmont was running a Gamma ray test this morning and preparing to abandon.

Livestock

EDMONTON, Aug. 24.—Total receipts: cattle, 710, calves, 138, hogs, 87, sheep 179.

Action was only fair on Wednesday's cattle market. Little receipts of low quality offerings tended to depress the market. Buyers are bearish in their attitude and salesmen are quoting barely steady to 50c lower values. Too many plain and light stockers and feeders are on offer for sale.

Good butcher steers now quoted 17.50-18.50 and medium 15.50-17. Choice butcher heifers realizing 16.50-17.50 and goods 15-16.50. Practical top good light butch cows 12. Heavy butcher cows quoted 50c off light cows, but bulls steady at 11-14.50. Demand continues good for better feeder cattle from 15-16.50 but plainer kinds are definately sluggish and hard to move.

Good light vealers 19-20, calves unchanged. Hogs steady, grade A for shipment 35-50, local plants 34. Sows, live weight 17.50 and stags, live weight 13.50. Feeder hogs 26-29. Lambs unchanged, good to choice handweights 10-20. Buck lambs discounted one dollar per hundredweight from grade.

AT CALGARY

CALGARY, Aug. 24.—(CP)—The Calgary livestock market was about steady this morning with Tuesday's close, but action was draggy on in-between kinds. Bulk of receipts were plain to medium quality, with not enough killing kinds on offer to test the market.

On Tuesday, 1,315 cattle were sold and weighed, with a fair clean-up toward the end of trading. Saleable receipts and truck run today were moderate.

Further Selling Weakens Prices

Sherritt and Upper Canada Exceptions to Down Trend

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—(CP)—Prices weakened slightly as selling pressure continued on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds slipped quietly tending to recover towards the close and industrial issues showed fractional declines. Base metals were pushed lower while western oils moved quietly. Volume was about 760,000 shares.

Senior golds led the downtrend as the list lost for the second consecutive day following three days of strong advance. Losses ranged up to five cents in junior producers. A few issues went against the trend for strong gains. Upper Canada featured in activity and continued to roll ahead.

Utilities, steels and liquors backed down fractions in a weakening industrial board. Papers steadied from recent declines and foods were mixed.

In base metals Sherritt Gordon absorbed early selling and then climbed strongly upwards in brisk dealings.

were shaded. Aluminum was a minor gainer.

Gains and losses in the paper section were minor fractional ones. Abitibi and Price posted a gain of ⅛ each.

Quebec Power, Ottawa Power and Imperial Oil were shaded and Brazilian eased ¼. Bank of Montreal was up ⅛ and Bank of Commerce was down ¼.

Montreal Tramways was up two points to 35, giving the issues a total gain of five points in the last two sessions. Canada Cement common advanced ⅛.

Higher in mines, were Bobs Lake, Upper Canada, Trebor, New Goldvue and Louvicourt.

New York Stocks Remain Steady

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Enough buying interest developed in today's stock market to keep prices on a steady footing.

Small gains were in a majority a good part of the day and at times it appeared possible that a full-sized rally might get going. Demand was too mild, though, to start a decisive trend.

Turnover was at the rate of only 750,000 shares for the full session, a total which included a 20,000-share block of Commonwealth and Southern.

The market's ability to straighten out after the three-day setback encouraged many financial observers who figured the setback was merely a temporary interruption in a summer rally. On Thursday the price level reached a high for the recovery move and approached close to a 1949 top.

Higher prices were paid most of the day for U.S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Studebaker, Woolworth, United Aircraft, Swift International, American Telephone, Southern Pacific, Richfield Oil, Barnsdall Oil and Loew's.

Tending to hold back were Sear's Roebuck, Goodrich, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Natural Gas, American Smelting, Anaconda Copper and Johns-Manville.

Canadian issues were weak in afternoon trading. McIntyre slipped ½, Dome Mines dropped ¼ and Distillers Seagrams eased ⅛. Hiram Walker edged up ⅛. Canadian Pacific was unchanged.

Metals, Papers Weakest Points

MONTREAL, Aug. 24—(CP)—Fractional losses predominated near the final hour on the Montreal Stock Exchange and curb market today.

Base metals and papers were the weakest points and banks were mixed. Utilities and beverages were also lower.

Consolidated Smelters was one of the heaviest losers in the base metal section dipping ½ to 97. Hudson Bay mining lost ¼ and Noranda and International Nickel

Hanna Pete Again Active

CALGARY, Aug. 24. — Hanna Petroleums again was the most active issue on Calgary Exchange and finished ¾ ahead at 17½ in a turnover of 10,000 shares. North Continental also was active with 6,000 selling at 9¾ to 10.

Roxana showed a recovery from the day's low of nearly six cents in closing at 30½ in sales of 5,500.

Central Leduc closed one cent down from yesterday at 74 and Leduc West remained at 65. Princess closed at 20 for a loss of 1½ from the previous high.

Volume for the day was 56,075 shares.

RECALL to Moscow of Anatoli Lavrentiev, Russian ambassador to Yugoslavia, led to speculation that the Soviet Union planned "grace action". However, Soviet spokesmen later denied a diplomatic break was pending and said a new envoy would be named.

Late Buying Helps Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A little flurry of buying in the closing minutes left grains with a firm tone at the close on the Board of Trade today. Soybeans ended with small losses.

Closing prices were the highs of the day in wheat, corn, oats and rye. Before the late buying feed grains had loafed along without any large changes while wheat had slumped around a cent. All wheat except July finished on gains.

The late buying apparently came mainly from local traders who had gone short earlier in the session. With commercial and public interest in the market light, this local activity has had more influence on prices recently than it normally would.

Wheat closed ⅝ lower to ⅜ higher, corn was ¾ to 1 cent higher, oats were ⅛-⅞ higher, rye was ½-1¼ higher, and soybeans were ¼ to one cent lower.

Cash wheat: No. 4 red tough 1.77; corn: No. 1 yellow 1.28-28¼; oats: No. 1 mixed 65; barley nominal: malting 1.12-42.

Grain close:

Wheat—Sep 2.01⅝, Dec. 2.05⅝-¾, Mar 2.06¾-07, May 2.02-02⅛, July 1.88⅞.

Corn—Sept 1.23½-⅜, Dec. 1.15-14⅞, Mar 1.17¾, May 1.19¾, July 1.21.

Oats—Sep 66½, Dec 66¼-⅜. Mar 64, May 62¼, July 56⅞.

Rye—Sep 1.45, Dec 1.48¼-¾, May 1.51¼.

Light Damage In New Quake

By RAY TIMSON

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24.—(CP)—A "quake fever" gripped the Queen Charlotte islands today and elsewhere along the west coast people wondered: "Is there a bigger one coming?"

At 1:31 p.m. PDT (1:31 p.m. Edmonton time) yesterday British Columbia survived its second earthquake within 40 hours. Seismographs at Ottawa, Victoria, Seattle, Berkeley and Pasadena recorded it as "large."

RESIDENTS WORRY

The damage to property was slight. Like Sunday night's coast length tremors—Canada's worst—the fury of the quake was somewhere out in the Pacific, far below the surface.

But the second quake had other effects. It scared people into a silent worry. Sunday night at Prince George, and other centres from Alaska to Oregon, people fled into the streets in near panic, shouting, "Quake, quake."

Yesterday's new and weaker shocks caused no excitement. Instead, frightened farmers on the Queen Charlottes moved their cattle into the cities. The animals had felt the earth's shrugging, and were becoming nervous, unruly, and hard to handle.

FEAR WORSE QUAKES

At Masset, on the islands, Mrs. Stewart Burton reported by telephone the residents are worried. She asked, rather shakily, whether the seismographs, which recorded the shocks, showed any indication of more shocks coming tomorrow, or the next day.

Telephone operator Edna Evans at Queen Charlotte city asked the same thing. It appeared everybody was wondering whether the quakes were persistent echoes of Sunday's big one, or nature's way of warning that the worst has yet to come.

Barley Is Stronger In Active Trading

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24.—(CP)—No exporting business was reported at the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. In the coarse grains futures market, trade was more active than it had been recently with barley showing a strong tone.

Barley prices advanced on good demand by shippers, processors and other interests. Offerings were insufficient to offset the demand.

Oats also came in for fair shipper and mill demand but hedging and other sales were quite liberal.

Rye had a light trade with purchases made commission and local houses. Hedging sales were moderate and offerings were well-absorbed.

London Stocks

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(Reuters)—The start of a fresh account in London's Stock Exchange failed to bring about any improvement in trading conditions and caution remained the keynote pending the outcome of the talks in Washington on the dollar crisis.

British government securities went ahead slowly under the lead of war loan 3½'s which gained ⅝ to £95⅝. These improvements were largely due to efforts made to correct the oversold position that exists in this section. Buying was largely professional and in small amounts only.

Industrials remained very quiet throughout except for some selective support from the provinces for textile issues but the improvements here consisted of a few pence only.

There were a few inquiries for oil shares which were bought as a devaluation hedge and prices were occasionally harder. Rubbers remained quietly maintained.

Lack of support coupled with a few odd sales resulted in a slightly easier tendency in Kaffirs but coppers were quietly steady.

CURRENCY CRISIS EXPLAINED

Shortage of Dollars World-Wide Condition

By The Canadian Press

To many Canadians, the world's colossal currency puzzle is just that—a puzzle.

Daily talk of the sterling-dollar crisis often seems abstract because the ups-and-downs of world economy usually follow a tortuous and well-hidden trail before they hit the average Canadian where he feels it—in the pocket book.

With discussion of the crisis slated for Washington in September at a conference attended by U.S., Canadian and United Kingdom government representatives, the external affairs department has come up with a timely explanation of the whole problem.

Published in the department's monthly bulletin, the article is called "The Sterling-Dollar Crisis: Canada's concern."

"Britain's dollar shortage is not new, and it is but one facet of a world-wide condition," the bulletin says. "There are very few countries which earn as many United States dollars as they would like to spend in that country.

"But the United Kingdom is particularly hard hit by this situation because of her very great reliance on imports from North America and from other countries which demand dollars in payment."

Despite a remarkable recovery in U.K. production and exports last year, there has been in 1949 renewed and serious decline in reserves of gold and dollars which the U.K. maintains on behalf of the whole sterling area.

If the drain of these reserves continued at the rate experienced in the first half of this year, they would be exhausted in less than a year.

The purpose of the financial talks in London and Washington will be to consider solutions of this problem.

In the meantime, however, since immediate action was thought necessary, a cut of 25 per cent in British dollar imports has been announced and other sterling countries have indicated they will take similar action.

This will inevitably affect certain Canadian industries and Canada's earnings of U.S. dollars.

Tracing the currency troubles from the beginning, the bulletin goes on to say that when Britain was the world's leading industrial nation there was never any chronic shortage of sterling. The reason was that Britain depended so heavily on imported raw materials that she had to adopt free trade. There was no shortage because even when she exported more than she imported, she invested her surplus earnings abroad.

During the Second World War European countries were ravaged by war and their means of production seriously hampered, Britain included. However, while they couldn't produce, they needed American goods even more than before the war.

Despite Marshall Plan aid and loans from the U.S. and Canada, Europe's shortage of dollars has been getting worse.
